The Mocks: Kentucky Bourbon & Civil War Spies

By Jim Horany

Son in law of Margaret Mock Carroll

Five years ago, when I chose to marry Deborah Carroll, daughter of Margaret Mock Carroll, I had no earthly idea that I would become so absorbed with the search for historical information on the family founded by William Randolph Mock, born 1771 in Lincoln, VA. Margaret Mock Carroll is a direct descendant of Randolph Mock (1771-1853), daughter of Louis F. Mock, who was the son of John Lewis Mock, who was the son of John J. Mock who was the son of Randolph Mock. When I asked Margaret's permission to delve into the history of her family I had no idea that I would one day be able to come face to face with her most famous Mock family heirloom, a bottle of Kentucky Bourbon Whiskey, simply known as "Old Mock Whiskey."

Margaret's family history started with William Randolph Mock, born in 1771 in Virginia. At a very young age, he and his parents moved to Georgia and sometime around 1796 William Randolph moved to Kentucky to what is now known as Boyle County. He acquired a sizable amount of land approximately 3.5 miles north of what is now known as Danville, KY. The area he possessed was known as Harrods Run and later as Mock's Creek after William Randolph gave permission to build a bridge across the creek in 1836. His farm was called Cedar Grove Stock Farm.

William Randolph raised and trained Kentucky thoroughbreds on his farm and was one of the earliest landowners in the new state of Kentucky. He owned 550 acres of land and more than 100 head of fine breed race horses. His estate also owned approximately 25 slaves.

There are no records held by the family today that can shed light on the circumstances that brought William Randolph to start a distillery. History teaches us that the best bourbon in the world comes from Kentucky, so it probably seemed like a good thing to do for Randolph at the time. All the information we have was passed down by word of mouth. He founded the distillery in 1842 according to Minnie Bell Mock, great great granddaughter of William Randolph Mock. As Minnie Bell so appropriately noted, "Mr. Mock established the W.R. Mock Distillery, making a fine brand of sour mash whiskey, under the label of "Old Mock."

William Randolph, died in September 1853 and according to the last will and testament left a sizeable amount of acreage to his sons John J., Ezekial F. and William R., Jr. In addition he left funds to his children and grandchildren. His will does not specifically mention the distillery, however it does state that the balance of his estate after all debts were paid was willed to John J., Ezekial F. and William R., Jr.

Notations in the Kentucky Genealogy & Biography, Volume V., give us the answer on what became of the distillery after William Randolph Mock died in 1853. Volume V states, "The Grandson of Randolph Mock, William Randolph Mock took over running the distillery after his father, John J. Mock died. "In 1866, Mr. Mock commenced running the "Old Mock Distillery" which has a capacity of fifty bushels of corn per day, and has met with fair success. He has kept up the reputation of the "Old Mock Whiskey", the manufacture of which was established by his grandfather and continued by his father."

Minnie Bell Mock, great granddaughter of John J. Mock, made notes of the Kentucky State License reports dated 1882-1884.

Licensed -Distilled Spirits of Kentucky
W.R. Mock, Jr., Danville, Kentucky , Boyle Co. 1880-1881
BRAND = "OLD MOCK" Warehouse #158
Bourbon Sour Mash Whiskey District #7
Stock on Hand, October 1, 1882 Reported - 267 Barrels
Using 50 bushels of corn per day.

There is little information on what became of the distillery after the turn of the 20th century. We know that Stitzel-Weller Distillery acquired it and Julian "Pappy" Van Winkle, a legendary whiskey maker, owning controlling interest in the W.L. Weller Distillery, originally owned W.L. Weller. He merged to become Stitzel-Weller in 1933 so Stitzel-Weller acquired Old Mock Whiskey after 1933.

And so, up until 2003, Margaret Mock Carroll and myself have been searching for any clue as to the whereabouts of a bottle of "Old Mock Whiskey". We had visited Minnie Bell Mock before her death in 2000 and she had told us that she had given bottles of Old Mock Whiskey to her siblings, but we had never met any of their offspring who had possession of a bottle. As a matter of fact we had given up hope of ever seeing a bottle, much less possessing one.

But as the old saying goes, "Chance favors the open mind." In March 2003, I along with several other Mock relatives who had expressed interest in the Randolph Mock family, were contacted by Ron Moore, List owner and Moderator of the Mock-Gen-L List server for the Mock Family Historian association. His message was a surprise to say the least, as a family that had possession of a bottle of prohibition-bottled "Old Mock Whiskey" had contacted him and they wanted to see if they could auction it to a member of the Randolph Mock family. What's more, the bottle was full, and was still sealed, never opened, and included the box it came in. It had been distilled in 1916 and bottled in 1933. I was absolutely overwhelmed.

Interestingly enough, Ron Moore would later mention to me that this very bottle (green and red label shown above) was featured in an article in the Mock Family Historian newsletter, Volume VI, N1, winter 1997.

We are forever indebted to Linda Johnson of Longmont, CO. and Tevis Goldhaft of Haverford, PA; previous owners of the "Old Mock Whiskey" bottle I purchased in the auction. For them to take the time and trouble to see if they could find any family connections to this heirloom speaks for their character. They are still working on recalling exactly how Linda's husband came across the bottle and how they acquired it. What is known is that Linda's husband gave it to Tevis, her father, in exchange for the Jim Beam bottle collection that Tevis wanted removed from his attic.

After searching "Mock" on the web, they came in contact with Ron Moore and he initiated and moderated the auction process. We are greatly indebted to Ron Moore for his invaluable assistance in seeing this process through.

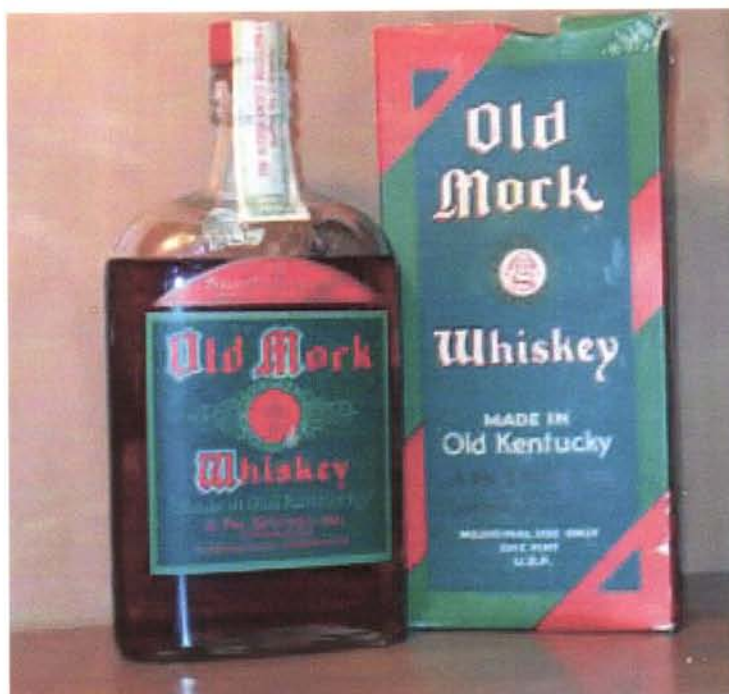

In addition to acquiring the bottle, we also made contact with some long lost "Mock relatives of Margaret's. Ron Moore had sent my contact data to various Mocks involved in the auction and we were soon corresponding with Linda Mock, Nacogdoches, TX, and daughter of John Cleon Mock. Linda is Margaret's second cousin and she has possession of the Stitzel-Weller bottle shown in this article. In addition to meeting with Linda we also found Darlene Pearson Underwood of White Settlement, TX, daughter of Nellie Mock Pearson. Darlene is also Margaret's second cousin. We are now involved in getting together, comparing notes and researching all we can.

And now that we have a bottle of Old Mock Whiskey, I admit, I go over to my curio shelf in my den and I take a look at that bottle every day and I think about taking a sip, but of course, I could never bring myself to open the bottle.

Since the Old Mock Whiskey search is now over we have redirected our efforts to other "Mock searches", namely the origins of Mathias Mauk (1750-1805). Since there is some circumstantial evidence that shows he may have been the only Mock to move to Georgia from Virginia in the early 1800's, there are those who speculate he could have been the father of Randolph Mock (1771-1853).

There has never been definitive proof, and this matter remains unsolved until other leads can be discovered and checked. Linda, Darlene and myself are beginning to search out possible new leads.

We are also currently involved in searching for more background data on John Lewis Mock (1841-1915) who was the son of John J. Mock. John J. Mock operated the distillery after Randolph Mock's death in 1853. John Lewis was Margaret's grandfather and the great grandfather of Linda Mock and Darlene Underwood. John Lewis Mock's life was full of historical significance to Tarrant County Texas and the Confederacy. He joined the Confederacy in 1862 with the Kentucky 6th Cavalry, Company A, known as Morgan's Brigade under the command of Lt. Bennet Young. He was taken prisoner in July 1863 and was taken to Camp Douglas Prison camp. He, along with several men including Lt. Bennet Young, the leader of Morgan's Brigade, escaped Camp Douglas in October 1863 and fled to Canada.

Most recently we have received data from Dan Rush, Centre College of Danville, KY, researching Kentucky Confederates and Morgan's Brigade. In addition to the information we already have on John Lewis Mock and Morgan's Brigade, Dan has discovered that while in Canada, John Lewis along with many of Morgan's raiders, joined the Confederate Secret Service under the command of Capt. T.H. Hines which plotted to free the POW's at Camp Douglas in July-August 1864. In addition Dan has found very strong circumstantial evidence that places John Lewis Mock as one of three unidentified raiders that was involved in the famous St. Albans Raid in St. Albans, VT in October 1864 under the leadership of Lt. Bennet Young.

Young John Lewis Mock,
member of Morgan's Brigade under Lt. Bennet Young and John Lewis Mock would leave Kentucky and move to Texas with his family in 1876, to Saginaw, TX, a suburb of Ft. Worth, TX. He would become a Tarrant County Commissioner and be instrumental in the founding of the present day historic Tarrant County Court House in downtown Fort Worth. If you are ever in Fort Worth, go by the courthouse and walk up the steps and see the name of John Lewis Mock inscribed on the courthouse outer wall. His picture in this article rests on the Tarrant County Court House wall. We continue to search for more information on his life in the Confederacy and in Texas as a Tarrant County commissioner.

To say the least, we are greatly indebted to everyone involved with the Mock family search we are making. We continue to correspond and delve into every avenue possible. If you have any information on the Randolph Mock side of the Mock family, please feel free to send us any and all information through the Mock-Gen-L List server. In addition if you wish to correspond with Jim Horany he can be contacted at jhorany@texaspump.com.

In closing, I want to acknowledge the gracious help of Barbara Dittig and Ron Moore for making this article possible and for giving us the opportunity to share this side of the Mock history with everyone. I would also like to acknowledge the help and information from Linda Mock, Nacogdoches, TX, Darlene Underwood, White Settlement, TX, and Dan Rush at Centerville College in Danville, KY. Their help has been invaluable.

And above all, I want to thank Margaret Mock Carroll, my mother in law, for being who she is; one of the most wonderful and loving women I have ever had the pleasure of knowing.

Mock Family of Odessa, Ukraine

Submitted by Ron Moore

I want to welcome a new member to MOCK-GEN-L, Valery Mock from Odessa, Ukraine. It is not clear to me if any of this family came to America. Maybe she can clarify that for us. We certainly are glad to see members from European countries and hope to someday get more to join our group. The message below is the one she sent me about her family:

My ancestor Johannes Mock was born in 1769 in Ottersheim/Germersheim-Pfalz, in 1809 he has emigrated to Russia also has lodged in colony Franzfeld-Odessa. His younger son Konrad Mock (b.1809) married in colony Kleinliebental-Odessa. His son Peter Mock (b.1832) has lodged in colony Neuliebental-Odessa. His son Georg Mock (b.1863) married in colony Kleinliebental on Margaretha Shoch (b.1859), from them marriage in 1886 my great-grandmother Katharina Mock was born, in 1910 she has married in Odessa. About my great-grandfather Georg Hieronim Mock (also Mock!!!) I know very little, as he was executed by the Soviet authority in 1920 in Odessa.

His father Johann Mock has emigrated. From what colony they occur I do not know. My grandfather Johann Mock was born in 1911 in Odessa. My father Viktor Mock was born in 1932 in Odessa. I was born in 1959 in Odessa.

<http://www.ahsgr.org/impt-dates.htm>

In 1804, Alexander I issued a new manifesto inviting Germans and other foreigners to immigrate to Russia with a promise of no military service. This may have motivated Valery Mock's ancestor to settle in Russia in 1809.

In 1874, the Russian government issued an order then demanding military service from the Germans, many of whom were Mennonites, causing thousands of German/Russians to leave Russia for North and South America.

Kansas has a large population of German/Russians who smuggled winter wheat out of Russia and to our state sewn into their clothing. Many came to Kansas to farm and others came to work for the railroad. The German/Russian population is a strong cultural element in Topeka that still celebrates its heritage.

There were several Mock families involved with the move from Russia that began in 1874 and continued into the earliest years of the 1900's, ending with the Communist Revolution.

Charles Fenton Mock of Washington Co., KY

Research by Ron Moore for MFH member, Marilyn Follo

Re: Rudolph Jr>Daniel>Reuben>Daniel J.>Charles

Over the past few days I have been doing more research, trying to sort out the various Mock families in Washington Co, KY. I believe we have been able to clear up a couple of mysteries there that pertain to your line.

The first pertains to the marriages of your Charles Fenton Mock. As you recall, the Washington Co, Kentucky Marriage Records, 1792-1878, transcribed and compiled by Margaret Clark Kingston lists two marriages for a C. Mock. One was:

Charles T. Mock to Paralee Brady, 21 Mar 1862,

C. G. Mock to Susan C. Fenwick, 8 Nov 1864.

We know that the second marriage where his name was "C. G. Mock" to be in error since we have multiple other records that substantiate that "Charles F. Mock" married Susan Fenwick.

The question we had not been able to answer was if Charles T. Mock was the same as Charles F. Mock or could this have been a different person?

The answer was located in the book, Washington Co, Kentucky Cemeteries, Volume II compiled by Faye Sea Sanders. It shows that Paralee Rachael Mock, wife of C. F. Mock died 15 Oct 1863. Her birth was noted to be 18 Mar 1842.

In the 1860 US Census of Washington Co, KY, a Parrellee Brady was age 16 and living in the household of James A. Brady, age 52 and wife Deborrah Brady age 49, They had other children and all were born in Kentucky.

This information, I believe, conclusively proves that these two marriage entries for Charles Mock are indeed the same person. His first wife Paralee Rachael Mock died about a year and half after their marriage. We do not have record of any children born to them. A little over a year after her death, he remarried to Susan C. Fenwick who is your ancestor.

The other mystery that has been resolved is that many years ago, I received copies of some guardianship records for Mocks in Washington Co, KY. These were identified as:

Harriet B. Mock, Franklin P. Mock, Kate Mock and Margaret A. Mock

These records began on 13 Apr 1868 and continued until 3 Jul 1868, The father of these children was listed as D. J. Mock which would be Daniel J. Mock a gunsmith and son of Reuben Mock the gunsmith. The guardian of these four children was C. F. Mock who is your Charles Fenton Mock, first born son of Daniel J. Mock. These records also mention the income of D. J. Mock as of 1864, so it is possible that the death of Susan occurred at about that time.

Daniel J. Mock was a farmer as well as gunsmith and no doubt had little time to raise his younger minor children.

Letters to the Editor

Descendant of Melvina/Melda Mauk

Chart #23 - Peter > Frederick > Peter > Frederick S.

I'm researching this family for my mother-in-law who was interested in her genealogy. I'm not sure how to weed through what I'm hearing from the family and what I am finding. In thinking about how to present the data to you I'm going to break it up into sections of "What I know, What I have been told by the family, What I have found" and point out the discrepancies.

What I know

James F. Stephens married Maud Mary Jane Williams. They lived in Watertown NY. From 1920 census James age is 28 putting his year of birth about 1892. One of their daughters, Bonita, is my husbands grandmother.

What I am told by family

James F. Stephens was a son of Jasper Newton Stevens and Melda Mauk of Yancey, KY. James' siblings are Labouren m. Maud Fee, Lola Rebecca m. Cameron Fee and Janes m. Roxie Fee. James changed the spelling of his last name from Stevens to Stephens. James lied about his age to get into the service. He was stationed at Madison Barracks in Sackett's Harbor, NY. Don't know any more than that.

What I have found

In the Kentucky Death Index 1911-1986 Search Result, there was one match:

MELDA STEVENS

Date 480630

Age 074

Place HARLN

Residence HARLAN

Volume 037

Cert 18416

Death vol 48

I ordered the death certificate and it lists date of death 30 Jun 1948 and date of birth as June 7, age 74, so year of birth would be 1874. It lists her father's name as F.M. Mauk. Mother's name is unknown.

Then I found the following on the internet (<http://mock.rootsweb.com/marchives/arc9605b.txt>)

This was written 14 May 1996 to the Mock -Gen-L discussion group by Sharon Davis a MFH member:
Subject: MAUK

"I don't know if this will help anyone. I was going through some of my older notes on my CARTER line. I found a Pedigree chart that was given to me about 12 years ago from John Coley a police officer in Columbus Ga.

On this pedigree chart is a MAUK line.

Malvina Mauk b. 7 June 1874 Elliot Co. Ky d. 30 June 1948 Yancey Ky

Frederick M Mauk b. March 1827 Lawrence Co. Ky; md 2 Apr 1862 md Sarah Sparks

Peter Mauk married Eleanor."

• Sharon Davis

Then I found in the 1900 census Elliott Co. KY, Sinking Precinct entries for:

Jasper Stephens b. 9/1867

Melvina Stephens b. 6/1875

James Stephens b. 7/1892

John Stephens b. 12/1899

I also located Melvina on the 1880 census showing her father as F.M. Mauck. Then I found Melvina on your website with the father of Frederick M. Mauck. So, the big question is this - Is Melda Mauk the same person as Melvina Mauk?

The birthdates and death dates are the same. They have the same father, same husband and a son named James.

The discrepancies besides the name Melda vs. Melvina, the spelling of Stephens on the 1900 census. According to the family the spelling should have been Stevens. I think that difference could be explained by the census taker spelling it wrong, and James does not have a brother John. Could be that John may have died since he was 5 mos. old at the time the census was taken and maybe James never mentioned him to the family.

Any help you can give me in making the determination of whether or not Melda and Melvina are the same person would be appreciated.

My Mother-in-law's Aunt is trying to find a copy of James death certificate. I can't get it because it hasn't been 50 years. I am trying to find James' family on the 1910 census to see if the other children are listed with Melvina as the mother. They didn't come up when using the index search on genealogy.com. So I am going through page by page myself. They have to be somewhere.

Thank you again.

To MFH editor, Barbara

I've just been enjoying browsing your Mock webpage and saw the invitation to get in touch. I am a descendant of Wilhelm and Veronica Bloom Knepper who sailed to America with Alexander Mack. Their son Abraham Knepper was my gr-gr-gr-grandfather. Their daughter Mary Knepper married George Adam Martin, the Brethren "Rebel" Elder.

Several months ago, a few of us established a rootsweb list and freepage covering the families involved in the Snow Hill "Nunnery" in Franklin County, Pa. Are you familiar with the story of the Antietam revival and the Nunnery (a "daughter" site of Ephrata)?

I haven't gone through your working charts yet so perhaps I'll find out the answer to my question there. If you'd like to check out the Snow Hill site, we're at <http://freepages.genealogy.rootsweb.com/~snowhillcloister/>

Mocks from Loudoun Co., Virginia

Research by Marilyn Pohlman

The following is a list of Mock's in Loudoun Co., VA that I cannot attach to any other family. It stands to reason that at least some of them belong to Jacob Mock' (1775-1832) family but I haven't found the thread.

Wade H. Geiman, s/o Jesse Geiman and Mary Triplett, b. abt. 1881; d. Leesburg, VA; m. 1901 Ada M. Mock b. 1876 Loudoun Co., VA; d. 1938. Had 6 children that I have identified.

William H. Mock b. 3 Jul 1845, Loudoun Co., VA; d. 31 Aug 1920 Loudoun Co, s/o Thomas J. Mock and Rebecca Filler; m. Amanda C. Mock (maiden name or married name?) b. 18 Oct 1840; d. 3 Jun 1925 Loudoun Co., VA bur. Lovettsville Union Cemetery, Lovettsville, VA

Betsy Mock b. abt. 1780 in the 1850 Census of Loudoun Co.

There is a Betsy Mock living next door to George Washington Mock (son of Jacob Mock and Elizabeth (Rawlings) Mock) with a Liddy Mock b. abt. 1830.

Betsey Mock m. John Rawling 19 Dec 1801, Loudoun Co., VA.

John Mock m. Catherine "Kitty" maiden name unknown, b. est. 1790-1800

John Cornelius Mock (s/o the above John Mock and Catherins "Kitty") b. 1 Aug 1833, Loudoun Co., VA; d. 29 Dec 1858 Loudoun Co., VA; m. Elizabeth Monday/Munday d/o Robert Monday/Munday and Rosanna ?.

1. James Mock b. Loudoun Co., VA, d. Sept 1870 Loudoun Co., VA

2. Rosanna Mock b. Loudoun Co., VA, d. 1864 Loudoun Co., VA

3. William Mock b. Feb. 1864 m. Mary "Mollie" Tarleton d/o Burr W. Tarleton

4. Charlotte Mock b. 1869 m. Charles E. Jenkins

5. Margaret Mock b. 1873

6. Sallie A. Mock b. 1890 m. George Wm Ruthvin

John C. Mock was indentured 1841 age 9 to Uriah Beans He served in the Civil War Co. B, Loudoun Co. Rangers (Union)

Charles C. Mock m. Laura J. Campher d/o James J. Campher

Clifton H. Mock b. 1886 VA; d. 1962; m. 14 Mar 1906 Berkeley Co., VA (now W. VA) Mollie V. Smoltz/Smoltz

1. Charles Mock b. abt. 1919 WV

2. Mary Jane Mock b. abt. 1915 WV

Cornelia Mock b. abt. 1822-1850 Federal Census Loudoun Co., VA (male) He was age 28 living with Thomas and Rebecca Mock (possible son of Henry Mock).

Daniel Mock b. 1796 VA; m. 2 Jul 1818 New Jerusalem Church Lovettsville Loudoun Co., VA, Mary Ann Brill b. 2 Jul 1798 near Lovettsville, VA; d. Muskingum Co. OH bur. New Hope Lutheran Cem., Muskingum Co., OH.

1. Elizabeth Mock b. abt. 1825

2. William Mock b. abt. 1830

Daniel Mock was made guardian of Mepolitan Ball (s/o Stephen Ball) March 14, 1821.

Gene V. Mock [MFH member] speculates that Elizabeth and William may have been the children of Catherine "Kitty" and John

Mock Reasoning: Elizabeth Mock lists her occupation in the 1860 Federal Census, Ohio, Muskingum Co, as "Taking care of aunt",

It is also speculated that Daniel may be a brother to Jacob Mock (1775-1832) of Loudoun Co., VA.

Elizabeth Mock b. 20 Jan 1810 Loudoun Co., Va. At age 8 was indentured to Henry Long in Loudoun Co., VA.

Frederick Mock listed on the 1800 Virginia Personal Tax List from Loudoun Co., VA.

George Mock/Mack m. 8 Jun 1811 Loudoun Co., VA Sarah McArtor b. 1798 Loudoun Co., VA

In Loudoun Co. Militia Journals 1793-1829 transcribed from the Originals by Don Blinco, "Jacob Mock, Daniel Mock and Henry Mock all were in the militia between 1814 and 1826. There is also a George Mock listed for 1814, 1815, and 1816. He was fined a number of times for non-attendance. One of the staff was given the task of collecting the fines in 1816. That person reported back that George Mock could not be found." At first glance I thought that it might be George Washington Mock, son of Jacob Mock, but realized that he was not old enough to be in the militia. I have not found any other trace of the above George Mock in Loudoun Co.

George Mock b. 1818 m. Rebecca ? (possibly Taylor) b. 1825

1. Unknown (Possible William) Mock b. 1840

2. Allison Mock b. 1845

3. Jane Mock b. 1849

George W. Mock m. 6 Jan 1852 Loudoun Co., VA Mary Jane Jones. (There is a George W. Mock b. abt. 1797, Goose Creek, Loudoun Co. VA on an LDS - IGI Record).
(Question- do any of these George Mock's tie together?)

Henry Mock b. est. 1780-1784, Loudoun Co., VA d. 1852 m. Barbara "Barbary" Virts/Wurts/Wertz b. 3 Feb 1785 Loudoun Co., VA; d. 15 July 1858 Loudoun Co., VA

1. Isaac Mock b. 18 Dec 1803 Loudoun Co., VA

2. Jacob Mock b. 1 Sept 1805 Loudoun Co., VA

3. Johannes (John) Mock b. 5 May 1808 Loudoun Co., VA

4. Wilhelm Joseph Mock b. 9 Feb 1910 Loudoun Co., VA; d. 9 Oct 1824 Loudoun Co., VA

5. Sarah Mock b. 19 Jan 1912 Loudoun Co., VA

6. Mary Catherine Mock b. Loudoun Co., VA

7. Thomas J. Mock b. abt. 1814-1818 Loudoun Co., VA (possibly the Thomas J. Mock who m. Rebecca Filler)

8. Armisted M. Mock b. 1826 Loudoun Co., VA did not marry, died 9 Mar 1858 Loudoun Co., VA

Speculation - this Henry could be a brother of Jacob Mock (1775-1832) of Loudoun Co., VA

Henry C. Mock b. 23 Oct 1899, d. Dec 1958, bur. in Lovettsville Union Cem., Lovettsville, VA; m. Berdie B. Beans b. 25 Sept 1904; d. 24 May 1997 Hamilton, Loudoun Co., VA, bur. Lovettsville Union Cemetery, Lovettsville VA; d/o Franklin Beans

In a new listing on the Coles Co., IL USGENWeb site on "Epidemics in Coles Co." is the following;

From Charleston, IL Courier, July 31, 1851
Christian Mock, age 14 died during an Asiatic Cholera epedemis in Coles Co., IL. He came down on July 22, 1851 and died July 23, 1851 about 1 mile north of Charleston, IL.

From Genie - While checking out Mocks in Coles Co., IL, in 1860 (James T., 44, b VA, John M., 54, b NC), I came across what must be the worst spelling yet for Gottlieb. It was Gaudlopp Mock, 26, b OH. He was in Charleston Twp. with Mary 28, b IN. genielists@yahoo.com

Harold Mauk here - My Aunt Abigale (Mauk) Wilson b mid 1800's was from Charleston, IL and died there. She was the daughter of Gilbert Mauk b. 1848, son of Cornelius Mauk b 1810. Son of Gottlieb Mauk. Question? Could these people Genie wrote about be connected in some way to Christian Mock HemaukSr@aol.com

To Genie, That James T. Mock was most likely James Thompson Mock, b. Loudoun Co., VA in 1814, third son of Jacob and Elizabeth (Rawlings) Mock. He was in Muskingum Co., OH no later than Feb. 1836 as he married there. He and his wife then went to Hocking Co., OH They had 9 children there. Then moved to Coles Co., IL in about 1854. Two additional children born in Coles Co.

I have the names of all of the children and now have identified about half of their spouses but none of their children yet.

Introduction to the 12 Year Cumulative Surname Index

Compiled by Ronald M. Moore, MD

The following is the introduction page borrowed from the MFH Surname Index that will be previewed by Ron Moore at the 13th Annual Conference in Salt Lake City in September. Ron has spent innumerable hours over the past several months putting this publication together. By the time the 2003 issues are completed and indexed, there will be approximately 350 pages in all. This is indeed a true labor of love. We are deeply indebted to Ron for yet another invaluable contribution to the Mock Family Historian. Barbara Dittig, editor

A cumulative Index for the Mock Family Historian is a project that has needed to be done for the past several years. After going into full retirement about a year ago, I recognized that I might have time to do it.

This indexing has a double purpose. One, to be able to easily identify names of individuals who have been written up or mentioned in prior issues of the Mock Family Historian. The other is to try to establish relationships of one person with another when this is clear in the text.

It is felt that a cumulative index such as this will help to preserve much of the genealogical research on various Mock families and that it might be helpful for many generations to come.

When I agreed to take over this project, our editor, Barbara Dittig was asked if she wanted a bare bones type of index, or if she wanted one that showed relationships. She chose the latter, and I am glad she did. Although it took longer to compile, it saves the reader having to go through and check all references to a name when a search is being made.

For example if one is looking for George Mock, there are references to over 300, and an index which does not show relationships to narrow down the possibilities, would be of very limited usefulness to the reader, and would make it almost impossible to locate the person being searched.

It would have been nice if we also could have indexed places and dates, but this would have made the project more difficult and probably would never have been completed, so instead we settled on indexing only surnames.

It is felt that this index will help to identify many of the collateral lines related to the Mocks or any of its many variations in spelling. If a person does not locate the person he is looking for it is recommended that the many variant spellings should be considered since in early records, names were spelled in many different ways in various documents.

This index, or even the Mock Family Historian, should not be considered as a primary source for records and the evidence needs to be weighed and all documents should be confirmed. For example, many records indexed are queries that have been received from various searchers who are looking for their true lines and these are sometimes labeled with such things as "possible husband of" or "possible daughter of" a certain person. The indexers have made no attempt to try to document any of these and even if it is known to be in error, it has been indexed anyway in order to maintain integrity of the original text.

We have learned a lot about the multiple Mock families with all the variant spellings since the Mock Family Historian began publication in 1991. We have identified at least 88 surname variations that we believe are related to Mock.

We have tried to index all spelling variations that are evident in the original text. This has resulted in duplication of some families, but we have tried to do this when it is evident that these other spellings have been used in various documents.

We have primarily tried to link each person to a parent, usually the father and also to a spouse when this is evident in the text. We have included multiple marriages when known, but have not tried to separate them as first, second, third etc. Most of the children of that family will be linked to the father. The father is then linked to his wife who may or may not be linked to all the children. It is then up to the reader to decide from the original text as to which child belongs to a certain mother.

When the small group of charter members met at Barbara Dittig's home in Danville, CA in 1991, little did we know that this project would have lasted for at least 12 years and would have been as successful as it has been. Most of this success can be attributed to our tireless editor, Barbara Dittig and the many people that work with her and submit articles and information on their families. This has been a very nice group of people to work with.

A lot has been learned about these various families and some myths have gradually been dispelled. It is now known that the various Mock families who immigrated to America do not have a common ancestor, but are really a combination of similar sounding names, mostly from Germanic countries. Many links however do occur and many of these have been found through the years. As far as the variant spellings of Mack, most that we have recorded here and have been researched are of Germanic origin and not so much those coming to New England from countries such as Scotland, England and Ireland.

The origin of the British Macks is still not known. However, there are some Mocks from Braughton, Devonshire, England who we believe to be probably Germanic.

An exciting new innovation in genealogical research has been DNA studies. I am sure they will be more useful with time and as testing procedures improve. The Mock Family Historian has been on the cutting edge of this new technology. One of our members, Doug Mauck has done

Mock Finds

I have been working on the Mock-Boner family in Franklin County, Illinois recently trying to determine the actual death date of Jane (Williams) Mock widow of Moses Mock. I have narrowed likely date down to between 1866 and 1870 based on printed tax lists and census.

The only children of hers that married in Illinois were George and Isaiah. Interestingly, two of her grandchildren (first cousins) also married in IL according to the obituary of Margaret Mock and a Greenwood County, Kansas History. However, each lists a different date (1872 & July 1868). Since learning of the Illinois on line marriage index and death index, I have been searching to confirm my Illinois records from other sources and to search for those that I don't have. In the case of the grandchildren, it took some doing. I finally found the record using a neat feature of the index—searching all of the groom and bride "M" names by county. No luck in Franklin but then I tried Williamson County the next county south of Frankfort County because they lived just north of the county line. This is a copy of the records from the index:
17 Feb 1859- Isaiah Mock to Sarah Angeline Franklin Campbell 003/0162
17 Jun 1860- George Mock to Charlotte Franklin Flint 003/0238
19 Jul 1868- Benjamin E. Moak to Margaret Williamson B /302

In a book titled Cemetery Inventories-Death Records in Franklin Co., IL by Harley Neal, 1988 a book that records 1,111 burials not listed in current inventories, on page 20 he lists in the East Fork (Pleasant Grove) Cemetery, Frankfort Twp.:

Muck, Isaich Age 42 yrs, 6 mos, 21 days., D. 12-7-1878.

I think that this is likely the Isaiah Mock listed above because the calculated birth year matches that from census records and he is not listed in the 1880 census. His wife is head of household and a widow. Does anyone have another confirmation of his death?

The Wuerttemberg Emigration Index

Submitted by Kathy Busby

The Wuerttemberg Emigration Index is a seven-volume work that represents the thousands of German and Prussian immigrants to the United States that made application to emigrate at Wuerttemberg, Germany. This collection, filmed at Ludwigsburg, contains the names of approximately 60,000 persons who made application to leave Germany from the late eighteenth century to 1900. The information supplied on each person includes: name, date and place of birth, residence at time of application and application date, and microfilm number.

The Wuerttemberg emigration records are a unique collection of papers and documents on applicants who filed for permission to emigrate from Germany during the nineteenth century. These records are not alphabetized nor are the pages numbered, which makes a search through them complicated and time consuming. In many cases, as many as eight pages were written on one person, including a birth certificate or a family record, military release, and renunciation of citizenship rights. Often the handwriting in these documents is almost indecipherable for even an experienced German researcher. It is almost impossible for a layman to search through these records successfully.

All information included in Wuerttemberg Emigration Index has been extracted from the original Wuerttemberg emigration records filmed at Ludwigsburg and available on microfilm at the LDS Family History Library in Salt Lake City or through its branch LDS family history centers. Although all of the records were handwritten by German speaking people, the spelling of names varies from one document to the other. In cases where applicants used their own signature, that spelling was used.

Also it was common in those days for the courts to appoint a guardian even if just one parent died, either father or mother of the minor children.

At first when I obtained these records, I wondered what happened to the father of these children that caused a guardianship to be appointed. Now I believe it was the death of his first wife, Susan (Linton) Mock and possibly with difficulties experienced by his second wife, Mary (Linton) Mock in coping with this large family with several minor children,

The 1880 US Census indicates that Mary (Linton) Mock had one child with her husband Daniel J. Mock and this was Mary Mock age 5 who was living with her. Daniel J. Mock had just recently died in Dec 1879,

At first it was a puzzle to me as to why these records. Their father, Daniel Mock clearly did not die until Dec 1879 and this is documented in the mortality schedule of the 1880 US Census of Washington Co, KY. The answer I believe is that his first wife, Susan Linton, must have died close to this time of April 1868 since he remarried to her younger sister Mary Linton 22 July 1865 in Washington Co, KY.

Another puzzle not yet solved is that in the 1870 US Census of Washington Co, KY, in the household of Daniel J. Mock was a Bettie Mock who was age 9, so would be born in about 1861. She appears to be the youngest child in the household yet was not mentioned in the guardianships records. It is also a little unusual but not impossible they would have had a Bettie and an older daughter Elizabeth both in the same family. I was not able to locate this child in later records and wonder if she could have died about the same time as her mother or more likely that she may have been a child of one of Daniel J. Mock's sons.

an excellent job in getting this project organized and for cataloging the results. For this reason, the indexers have recognized these as very important records and have indexed the abbreviation DNA the same as a surname.

Census said they were all born in PA. Any help with this family will be greatly appreciated.

We recently went to Independence MO for the Mid-Continent Genealogy Library (a lovely place with very helpful staff), and among their new books I found one called Early Church Records of Rockingham County VA, by F Edward Wright. I was looking for my husband's Millers and didn't find them, but did find some interesting items in the minutes for the Smith's Creek Baptist Church:

January 1779: "... Bro. Daniel Mauke was brought before the church for fornication and was laid over till the next monthly meeting..." A note then explains he was later excommunicated.

February 1779: "Rudolph Mauke chosen for ordination." A note by the author says, "As deacon?"

March 1782: "Bro. Mauke complained of Sister Elisabeth Whitman's disorderly way of living." (The lady was excommunicated by April 6.)

Since none of these folks were Millers, I didn't skim the minutes for other churches.

NEW RESULTS FOR THE MOCK DNA PROJECT

The following new results are back from the lab:

Ronald G. McCranie is descended from Littleberry Mock, Sr. and is a 12/12 match with descendants of George Mock (Working Chart #13A) and Andrew Mock (1750-1815) (Working Chart #13B). This group of three may find a 25 marker test beneficial to test their relationships to one another and to the Peter Mock lines (Working Chart #19B)

Note from Mr. McCranie:

My name is Ronald Grant McCranie, it should however be Mock. I recently took the DNA test and the results show that I am a 12/12 match in the Littleberry and George Mock line. My father, James David McCranie was the son of James D. Mock and Ida Collins McCranie. J.D. Mock's wife and Ida's husband had each died.

• Ronald G. McCranie 911 Walnut Falls Circle Mansfield, TX 76063

Jerry Mock, descended from Henry Crawford Mock, (Working Chart 13C) b. 1843 and sponsored by his cousin, Jim Farber, fits in with five other participants descended from Joel T. Mock, (#13C) Thomas Mackh, (#15) Thomas Mock, (#20) and Dan Mock Sr. of Indiana, and John Mock (#134) b. 1807.

Again, these six participants would benefit from a 24 marker test to see if their relationship holds as closely and indicating the closeness of relationship in the ancestors.

Our latest participant in our DNA project is Lt. Col. Ernest W. Mack.

Col. Mack is 86 years of age and a retired veteran fighter pilot of World War II. His earliest known ancestor is his grandfather, John S. Mock, (1859-1933) of East Greenville, PA. John Mock is buried in the New Goshenhoppen Cemetery.

Col. Mack suspects that he is descended from Georg Mack (1742-1812) (chart #2) a Rev. War veteran who is also buried in the old cemetery at Goshenhoppen.

Results show that Col. Mack's ancestor, John S. Mock fits in with 5 other participants descended from Jacob W. Mack (Chart #12), William H. Mock b. 1816 (Chart #19B), Peter Mock Sr., NC (#19B), Peter Mauck b. 1708 (#19B)

We are still looking for descendants of Alexander Mack and George Mack (Soldier George).

FROM THE EDITOR

This will be the last issue before our conference in Salt Lake City, September 19-21. If you haven't yet made your hotel reservations and put your registration check in the mail, please do so soon. I will need a count of those attending to give to the hotel so that an appropriate size meeting room will be saved for us.

I think that the past year has been a very special one for the Mock Family Historian and Mock-Gen-L participants.

The DNA project has been more successful than we ever anticipated. New results continue to come in and it is exciting to see that many of these Mock/Mauck/Mack families are probably very closely related. I think my next project will be rearranging the Mock Working Charts grouping the close relationships. (That's next year's project!)

The 12 Year Cumulative Index will be completed soon after the last MFH issue for 2003 is done. Ron Moore and his helper, Helene Younger has done a magnificent job. Ron just sent me a copy of the cover that was done by his niece. It is, in itself, a work of art. A copy of the index, except for the names in the last issue, will be presented at the Sept. conference and a pre-publication price will be established for those who order before it goes to press. I have already received commitments from those who wish to purchase the index.

You'll notice that page 31 of this issue has 2 colored pictures. This is a first for the MFH. When the pictures of the "Old Mock Whiskey" were sent to Ron Moore by Jim Horany, Ron insisted that we should share these colored pictures with all of our members. The cost of making copies was prohibitive, but Ron would not give in. Instead he printed pages 31 & 32 on his printer and sent them to me to be included in the newsletter. Thank you, Ron! Hope you all enjoy!

I would like to thank those who have contributed articles, family data and other research materials. Without these invaluable items, the MFH could not exist. To name a few:

Marilyn Mock Pohlman has done an outstanding job of researching her Jacob Mock family of Loudoun Co., VA.

Phyllis Mock McWilliams has done extensive research on her Peter Mock line of Bedford Co., PA. and I appreciate her detailed documentation.

I have a hard time keeping these working charts up to date with all of the material that these two ladies send me.

Thanks to Jack Childers for his copy of the Mauck, Ruffner, Rothgeb Bible.

Hope to see you all in Salt Lake City in September.
