MFH Y-DNA Project

Doug Mauck, Manager

Remember when we used to get these letters from people who promised to give you a list of all of the Mocks in the world as well as the family crest for a few dollars? Well, they're back and they're keeping up with technology.

Now there are e-mails from 'scientific researchers' who have found your 'unique' haplotype or DNA pattern on 'Y-Search' that shows that you may be descended from a secretive (but talented and wise) population that was forced to move from country to country in Europe, many eventually arriving in the colonies. For a modest sum, you can purchase details on this group, including an exhaustive list of surnames associated with them. Everyone wants to feel special, and these folks will help you do that, again, for a modest sum.

At this writing, we have a mystery going on with Sandy Hart's sponsored Engle relative. Sandy took advantage of FTDNA's offer to accept any participant with any surname in the Mock Surname study at the Mock group rate. Sandy was surprised to find that her Kirk Engle, with 12 of his 37 marker test results returned, is a 12/12 match with some Mocks! The remainder of the 37 marker results should be in any day and the matches may well fall apart. In the meantime, it's fun to think that a false paternity may have occurred in Sandy's Engle line and that a Mock may be involved! DNA research has a lot of surprises. If you haven't participated yet, jump in and get your own surprise.

Speaking of false paternities, research is showing that the rate of false paternity is about 4% per generation. That means that if your paperwork traces your ancestors back eight generations, the rate of false paternity predicts that there is a 32% probability that a false paternity may have occurred in your line.

My wife, Jan, sponsored her brother, Steve Browning, in a 37 marker Y-DNA test because her paperwork shows that her Brownings are descended from a Captain John Browning, born ca. 1575 in Gravesend, England. That's about 12 generations. The probability of false paternity in her line would be about 48%. The results on Steve Browning are all in and he doesn't have any matches, even in Y-Search. With the odds about even for a false paternity somewhere in the line, only time and a future match will tell the story.

There are many ways a false paternity can occur. One of the least expected involved the fact that in Scotland, men sometimes took their wives surname when they married. It also often happened that if a woman died in her first childbirth, a married sister might raise the baby, leaving the husband free to start over. Men make terrible mothers anyway. Disease often took both parents, leaving the children to be adopted without courts or paperwork by relatives and neighbors. Genealogists are beginning to recognise 'familial descent' tracing the family with documents, and 'genetic descent' tracing Y-DNA lines. For instance, I could become a member of Sons of the Revolution based upon familial descent (my paper documented descent from Daniel Mauck of Page County, VA), but Y-DNA research shows that I'm actually descended from an unknown SHAMBLIN ancestor (genetic descent) who lived after Daniel Mauck.

April 19, 2005

We've received the 37 marker results from Gene V. Mock (deceased). Gene's 12 to 37 marker upgrade was sponsored by Ron Moore's Memorial Fund to set the baseline for Tilghman R. Mock's DNA. The results are posted at: <http://members.cox.net/dmauck/Chart/>

Unfortunately, Gene V. Mock does not have a match, even a 12 marker match, in our project, in all of the tests run by FTDNA, and no matches in Y-Search. Gene's Y-DNA is so unique that a haplotype can't be fixed for him. His results are at the bottom of the chart.

Time, however, with the addition of more test results at FTDNA and Y-Search will eventually answer the questions. At least we're ready with Gene's results when the matches do appear.

Note from Doug

We're getting ready to go to China for a year! Jan is going to teach English in Khejiang Normal University in Jinhau, Khejiang, China. It's about 300 miles SW of Shanghai. I won't have any responsibilities and can spend my time on photography, treasure hunting with a metal detector, etc..

We'll have broadband internet access and I'm taking my laptop, so I'll be able to do everything for Mock-Gen-L and the DNA project that I'm doing now.

We'll leave at the end of August and return July 1, 2006. It's going to be an adventure!

Bon Voyage Doug and Jan!

Have a wonderful year and please keep in touch with your Mock family.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Barbara,

I don't believe that we have ever met, however as a "hobby" researcher, I looked at your Mack Web Page last night and was greatly impressed with the work done by you and others. Although genealogy is my "advocation," my other job, the one that puts my children through college, is importing pianos from Germany. I spend a lot of time in Germany. (I've been to Schriesheim many times.)

My father was from a Dunker background. (My mother was Lutheran. Interesting combination.) Therefore, my interest in my background also has involved a lot of Brethren history too. (Quite frankly, I can't find in my father's genealogy anybody that is not Brethren until I get them back to Germany.) I have in my library at least 50 books that deal with Brethren History. I'm not an expert like you on the Mack family, but at least I know something about them.

I have spent some 40 years working with the Pennsylvania German names Wise (Weiss, Weis, etc., etc.). My office contains scores of notebooks on the name. My immigrating ancestor was Jacob Weiss of Cocalico Tp., Lancaster Co., Pa. married to Barbara Wolfen. Jacob was from Steinsfurt, Germany (Reformed) and Barbara was from Ittlingen, several miles away. They came to America in 1728 and settled on the Middle Creek in Cocalico Tp., Lancaster, Pa. (I have traced their family back into Switzerland.) Jacob died in April of 1749.

Jacob and Barbara had a number of children including two sons, Jacob (married to a Sophia) and George (married the first time to a Christina). They were active at Muddy Creek Church (Union). Jacob died in April of 1749. Jacob had no will. Death must have come quickly. A letter of administration was drawn for his wife Barbara and his son Jacob. The original is at the Lancaster Co. Historical Society. I have a copy. However, the Proprietors allowed the two sons to divide the already warranted land of Jacob Sr. into two equal parts and to "re warrant" the land. (Although I have looked at hundreds and hundreds of warrants, I have never found a "re warrant" accept for the two drawn for Jacob and George.) Jacob Junior and his mother, Barbara were Baptised into the Brethren group after Jacob Sr. died.

In the "Appendixes" of Dr. Durnbaugh's book, The Brethren in Colonial America, there is a List of Deaths (Alexander Mack, Jr.), "Register of the dear brethren and sisters especially known to me who have passed from time to eternity up to the present during my brief life-span." Listed as number 130 is Brother Jacob Weis, and his daughter, Sister Sophia.

I know much about my Weiss family although it becomes a little hard to read after some of them became Brethren.

Barbara, I'm asking you if you might be of some help to me in putting me in touch with others that you might know who may have the same family background, or who may have come across, the family of Jacob Weiss of Cocalico (son's Jacob married to Sophia and George married 1st. to Christina). Weiss is almost as difficult to trace as Miller. I know of at least four Jacob Weiss men in Pa. in 1730, three in Cocalico Tp., two that passed away in 1749.

Please call on me on anything that may be of help to you. I have produced much; published none - Perhaps in retirement. Amongst other interes I have completed connecting maps based on warrants, surveys and patents of (1.) Frankstown Tp., Huntingdon (now Blair) Co., Pa. (2.) Reading Tp., York (now Adams) Co., Pa. and Heidelberg Tp., Lancaster Co., Pa. (area now covered by Heidelberg Tp., Lebanon Co.) These are areas of early Brethren settlements. I have also worked on other Brethren areas too. I have helped many in their genealogical adventures.

Best regards,

Dear Barbara,

I don't know much about reading genealogical charts, but I was just browsing the web and saw the Mock page your chart is on.

I saw my great-great-grandfather Philip Turner Mock born 15 Dec 1856 in Forsyth County, NC (#13957 on chart #48), along with his wife, Ellen Thomasson and children. His son Jasper Wiley Mock and Anna Melinda Harper were my great-grand parents. They had 9 children (I think) and some of them are still alive.

My grandfather was their son, Philip Henry Mock b. 27 Jun 1916; d. Aug 2004; m. 21 Jan 1940 Mary Elizabeth Beroth b. May 1920; d. Sept 1999

I will be happy to share any further information on this family.

By the way, do you have any idea what the name Mock means?

John T. Mock marriage announcement to Lizzie Fox

The Bride And Groom Received.

A Large and Happy Gathering at the Beautiful Home of T.J. Mock, Round Prairie.

"Christmas has come" and gone and the merry holidays have brought together the scattered members of many a family in re-union, some joyous and happy, others sad and sorrowful. The family reunion is a mile-stone of life's road that marks the changing scenes of a changeful journey. Various pictures rise before the mind when these two words are spoken. The first are those of happy times when the prodigals come home for a few days or weeks and make the family life complete - when they are all together - father, mother, brothers and sisters. One after another they have left the old home for various fields of usefulness, and come back at times to gather round a Thanksgiving feast or a Christmas merry making, and all is mirth and gayety.

Such a gathering was enjoyed at the beautiful country home of Mr. and Mrs. T.J. Mock, of Round Prairie, on last Friday, the occasion being a family reunion and an "infair" in honor of the marriage of their son, John T. Mock to Miss Lizzie Fox.

The marriage was solemnized on the previous day at the home of the bride's parents, who are among the oldest and most highly esteemed people of that portion of the county, by Eld. J.A. Poteet.

It has never been the pleasure of the writer to spend a day more pleasantly and a more refined or happier crowd never assembled in old Bates for a day's social intercourse.

At the noon hour a feast of all the good things that could scarcely be imagined and served in the highest style of the culinary art, was spread and enjoyed by all present.

The family re-union was complete with the exception of one brother of the father of the groom, who is in the Regular Army and now stationed at Ft. Sheridan.

The Mocks are well-known as among the most substantial and influential citizens of Round Prairie, the garden spot of old Bates county. The following persons were present:

Jim Mock and family, John Fox and family, Frank Mock and family, of Kansas City, W.H. Wood and family, Joe Clapp and wife, Al Davis and family, of St. Louis, Joe Brown and wife, Horace Bowman and family, of Fair Haven, Mo., Mrs. O.H. McComas and little daughter, of Cloud Co., Kans., Mr. John Mock, of Charleston, Ills., Milard Zimmerman, Oakland, Ills., Miss Myrtle Devitt, of Kansas City, Nellie Gilbreath and Ed. Clapp, Charles Hilton and wife.

T.J. Mock of Missouri

Regarding Sharon Mock Whitaker's newspaper article from the Appleton City Journal, 4 January 1894. I would like to identify some of the people in that article about a family reunion and marriage.

T. J. Mock is Thomas Jefferson Mock s/o of James Thompson Mock

The brother of T. J. Mock who was in the regular Army was Joseph Barringer Mock

Frank Mock is Franklin Rosencrantz Mock - brother of T. J. Mock

Jim Mock listed as present was James Monroe Mock, brother of T. J. Mock

W. H. Wood is the husband of Elizabeth Alice Mock - sister of T. J. Mock

Mrs. O. H. McComas is Julia Ann Mock, sister of T. J. Mock and wife of Oliver H. McComas

Mr. John Mock is John Wesley Mock, brother of T. J. Mock

Miss Myrtle Devitt may be Franklin Rosencrantz Mock's daughter Myrtle - I haven't tied this one up yet.

The groom John T. Mock is the son of Thomas Jefferson Mock.

Thanks very much Sharon, this helped me to locate some new census material on some of these people.

These are all descendants of Jacob Mock of Loudoun county Virginia, ca 1775 or 1777, on Barbara Dittig's Chart # 38.

• Marilyn Mock Pohlman

To Marilyn and fellow Mock researchers,

Glad I could help someone. I think this type of "sharing" of Mock / Mauck / Magg information that one finds, even though it isn't "yours", is one of the major benefits of belonging to the list.

You do realize that there were other little bits and pieces—usually a line or two—about this family in other days "news" in St. Clair County, MO. (this was off their County Gen-web site) Such items that were typical of the "news" of a small county / town newspaper. Things like who was visiting from out of town, who had a party, who had perfect attendance in church or school. I didn't copy them as they didn't have a broad benefit to this group but are a great view into the times of a particular family.

George W. Mock and J.E. Hoover, proprietors of a large business enterprise at Roaring Spring, which has been carried on at this place for many years under the business style of the Bare Milling Company, are experienced grain and flour men and representative citizens and members of old families of this section.

George W. Mock was born in Woodbury Twp, Blair Co, Pa., June 23, 1868, and is a son of the late Andrew Mock, who lived near Williamsburg, Pa. George W. Mock was educated in the public schools. Since 1899 he has been engaged in the milling business and for seven years he owned and operated a mill at Rodman, near Roaring Spring, coming to the latter place in April, 1906. He admitted J. E. Hoover to a partnership and the old name of the plant was retained.

Mr. Mock married Miss Lillian E. Hoover, a daughter of Daniel Hoover, of Huston Township, Blair County, and they have two children: Daniel R. and Mary J.

Obituary hand-dated 11/5

Archie Claar Obituary Collection, Vol. 8, page 49 (1937)

Milling Company Manager Expires

George W. Mock, prominent resident of Roaring Spring where he served for many years as manager of the Bare Milling company, died this morning at 10.45 o'clock at his home, 431 Water street, that place. Mr. Mock had been in ill health for the past two years but seriously ill only two weeks.

He was born at Williamsburg on June 23, 1868, a son of Andrew and Mary Mock. He was twice married. His first wife, Mrs. Edith Lillian (Hoover) Mock, died fifteen years ago. On Oct. 6, 1925, he was married to Mrs. Frances Wagerman in Altoona.

Surviving are his wife, two children to the first union, Dr. Daniel R. Mock and Mrs. C. Edwin Garber of Roaring Spring; two step-daughters, Mrs. E.S. Attig of Altoona and Mrs. Furman Wallace of Roaring Spring; also one brother, I.C. Mock of Williamsburg.

The deceased received his early education in the Williamsburg public schools. In early life he operated a mill at Rodman and since 1906 had served as manager of the Bare Milling company at Roaring Spring.

He was a member of the Bare Memorial Church of God, Woodbury lodge of Masons, Williamsport consistory and Jaffa Shrine.

Funeral Notice

MOCK - Funeral services for the late George W. Mock of Roaring Spring will be conducted by Rev. H. H. Roub [name obscured by date]. Services will be held in Bare Memorial Church of God on Monday at 2.30 p.m.

Interment following in Fairview cemetery, Martinsburg. Friends are being received in the home.

Funeral notice hand dated 11/8

J. C. Mock, who is engaged in agricultural pursuits in Woodbury twp, Blair Co, Pa., has with the exception of five years, always resided on his present farm, and was born here August 15, 1865, a son of Andrew and Mary (Snively) Mock, who were prominent farmers of this township. His father always followed farming, was a Republican in politics and a member of the Church of Brethren.

Andrew and Mary Mock reared the following children: J. C.; G. W.; Viola, the wife of J. E. Stoner; Anna E., the wife of Roller Rhule; Sadie, deceased; Lilly B., deceased wife of P. H. Laymond; and D. S.

J. C. Mock spent his boyhood days on the home farm, and after obtaining an education in the local schools, engaged in agricultural pursuits, which he has followed all his life. In 1901 he purchased from the other heirs of his father's estate, the home farm, which consists of 100 acres of highly improved and cultivated land. He is one of the enterprising and public spirited citizens of the township and has served in various township offices, including that of supervisor and committeeman, and is at present one of the school directors of Woodbury township. In politics he is a Republican. His religious connection is with the Church of God.

In 1894 Mr. Mock married Margaret Longacker, who is a daughter of Jacob Longacker, and is one of the following children born to her parents: Harry, George, Essie, Barbara, (wife of Adam Treese); Elizabeth; Carrie; Joanna, and Margaret. Mr. and Mrs. Mock have reared the following children: Ethel, Grace, Roy, Alma, Melda, John, and Mary.

Ed. Note:

It appears that George W. and J.C. Mock are brothers, sons of Andrew and Mary Snively Mock. I have not been able to identify either of these families.

None of these names are listed in the MFH 12 yr. Index or in the MFH Charts Index. I find George W. in the 1900 Census Taylor Twp, Blair Co, PA., showing him to be b. Jun 1870 PA, married 3 yrs; Lillian E., wife, b. Aug 1875 PA; Daniel R. b. Dec 1897; Mary J. b. Nov 1899. I do not find an Andrew & Mary Mock in Blair Co. census records. Does anyone have info on these families?

Mackh/Mock's from Langenau State of Wuerttemberg, Germany - 1600 to Present

Research by Beverly Mack Zanon

Browsing the Mock working charts, I noted chart #45, for Thomas Mackh and brothers, Bartholemew, Wolfgang and sister Christina whose origins are from Langenau. My cousin, Lois Mack, & I have done extensive research on our Mack family in Germany and I personally have been able to take our line back to the early 1600's by using film available at LDS Family History Centers. Our Mack surname was not changed from Germany to the US although in earlier town origins it was spelled Mackh. From what I could see, the tauf [baptism], ehe [marriage] and sterbe [death] records, the surname was spelled MACK in Langenau.

When MFH member, Ida Boyce & Ron Mock made some inquiries regarding their Mock line that left Langenau, I realized perhaps there may be a connection between the two families.

See Beverly's article, Macks of Wuettemberg, MFH Vol. IX, Fall 2000, pg 51

In viewing the film, I have some interesting news. Firstly, I'd like to say, for those of you researching these Georgia Mocks, I may rewrite your history as you have theorized it as happening. I'll know more after I view more film. I went through the tauf film rather quickly as time was limited. I'll re-review it at a later date. I didn't find a tauf record for the Christina born 1744ish in your Working charts. Nor did I find one for Wolfgang during that time period.

According to research done and entered in the working chart #45, Thomas, Bartholomew, Wolfgang and Christina all left Germany for America together, as siblings and arrived in America aboard the Antelope on 23 October 1751. I've viewed that manifest on <http://www.immigrantships.net> - Volume 5 and the only Mack aboard was a Wolfgang. Aboard the November 1752 sailing of an unknown ship [Volume 5] is a Bartholomew, Maria [wife], Thomas, and Wolfgang Mack all traveling together. These two ships were among the ships bringing the Original Georgia Salzburger Settlers to America. I make this statement based on the data I saw on the website[s].

With that said, I found on the Langenau film the following MACKH [note the spelling of the surname] tauf [baptism] records:

Georg Mackh born Feb 9, 1726

Anna Catherine Mackh born Feb ?, 1728

Bartholomew Mackh born Nov, 1729

Thomas Mackh born Aug 12, 1733

Johann Michael Mackh born Nov 24, 1735

Barbara Mackh, born Nov 21, 1741

The above siblings parents were Wolfgang MACKH and Barbara NIEDERSTRMOR[IN] [sp to be confirmed at a later date]

I theorize that perhaps the Wolfgang traveling on the Antelope may have been the father coming ahead to make a place for his family and traveling with Bartholomew, Maria & Thomas was perhaps a brother. Barbara, the mother, may have passed away, influencing the decision to leave Germany for America. A further review of the Langenau sterbe [death] records will confirm my suspicions that Barbara passed away around 1751.

One more thought, as I was surfing thru the film, this MACKH family is the ONLY MACKH family in Langenau during that time period. I am wondering if Wolfgang's origins may be from another nearby town/village just like my MACK line. I searched thru the film I have re surrounding towns, but couldn't find him mostly because the date range I have is in the 1800's. The surname is spelled MACKH in Setzingen.

My biggest hope is to tie the two Mack[h]/Mack/Mock lines together. That would be wonderful for all concerned.

Below find an outline of the Wolfgang Mackh line I've been attempting to connect to mine & my cousin's MACK line from Langenau, Wuerttemberg, Germany. I could not find a baptism or marriage record for Wolfgang or Barbara on the film I have on permanent loan for Langenau. I can confirm Wolfgang's surname in Langenau, Germany was MACKH and his siblings as per written baptism kirchenbuch [church] records. I can confirm all his sibling's births in Germany except for Christina's. I'll have to revisit the film to find her. I can not confirm any marriages or children in America. I took this data from the working charts. I am assuming Wolfgang's first wife, Barbara, died about 1752 because he left Germany without her with some of his children. I don't know what happened to the children that remained in Germany at this time Ida Boyce & I have been communicating re this line. I've not heard from Ron Mock re my findings. My cousin and I were in hopes we could connect both lines. But they remain elusive to date.

Mocks in Franklin Co., Ohio*Submitted by Carol Nocella*

Michael Maag>Michael Jr.>Joseph>Charles E.>Riley B.

I found my grandpa, Riley B. Mock b. Jul 1886 OH; d. 2 Nov 1970 Sacramento, CA, on your working chart #3 Michael Maag & Susanna Charlotta Walz. Riley kept good records and so much of the info I have is the same as yours. I grew up knowing him well. He helped spark my interest in our family tree when I was a teenager.

From him, I got much data concerning the family back to Joseph Mock b. 25 Oct 1819 who was married to Minerva Innis, including all the kids, grandkids, etc. of the various branches. Several years ago my sister, who was also working on our tree, linked up with somebody and that's where we learned about Michael Mock Jr. born 1764, but that person hadn't taken the tree any farther back than that.

Grandpa's ancestor, Michael (I believe), was one of the first settlers in Ohio. They settled in Clinton Twp., Franklin Co. Supposedly the Mock name is a big deal in that part of the country for that reason. Apparently there's still a "Mock Road" in Columbus (?) today which ran along the original Mock farm.

My grandpa's father, Charles E. Mock b. 1858, in Franklin Co, OH inherited the farm and Grandpa Riley spent his early childhood there. According to Riley, his father was —[not a very nice person]. He was known to have a drinking and gambling problem, and in general not a very nice person. Riley hated him with a passion. I've heard the same from the daughter of Riley's brother James, Janice (Mock) Ruggles, whom I am in contact with (she would be my mom's 1st cousin). Janice told how Charles owned a beautiful, matched-set, team of horses that were used to pull the buggy. One night he came home drunk, and rather than get out of the buggy to open the gate to the farm, he ran the horses into it. They had to be shot. According to Riley, Charles lost the farm in a poker game. The rumor is then they struck oil on the land! Don't know if that's true or not, but if it is, then my mom's family might have been rich instead of dirt poor. Little bit of trivia for you. I have a good professional-quality photo of Charles when he was a young man that I got from Janice.

Grandpa Riley vehemently insisted that his original immigrant ancestor was from Hesse, Germany. He had no doubt about that at all. He also said Charles' father, Joseph, was a "7th son of a 7th son" which is supposed to mean something; I believe it means the person is supposed to be especially blessed or lucky.

I noticed one of your contributors is a "Wright," a descendant of Charles' sister Leora Mock. If I remember correctly, I believe my mom was good friends with that branch of the family.

Isaac S. Mock of Blair Co, PA*Twentieth Century History of Altoona and Blair Co, PA
Chicago, IL: Richmond-Arnold, 1911*

Isaac S. Mock, one of Roaring Spring's leading business men, engaged in plumbing and heater work, has been established here since 1904. He was born in Woodbury Twp, Bedford Co, PA., November 7, 1856, a son of Reuben and Elizabeth (Hoffman) Mock.

Reuben Mock was born in Maryland and was young when he was brought to Bedford Co. by his parents being reared at Pleasantville where they lived for many years. After his marriage he removed to Woodbury Twp, in Bedford Co, where he engaged in farming until his death, which occurred in 1884. In his earlier years he was something of a horseman and it was told how he successfully drove a six-horse team all the way from Morrison's Grove to Baltimore, carrying grain and produce. This was before railroad days and, considering the difficulties, was considered something of a feat. He used the famous Conestoga wagon which was especially constructed for long distances and heavy loads. It has been celebrated in story and poem.

Reuben Mock was well known and was a welcome visitor at many a fireside and public gathering. He was a member of the Brethren church and was a staunch supporter of the Democratic party. He married Elizabeth Hoffman, a daughter of Rev. Christian Hoffman who was a pioneer preacher of the River Brethren faith in Bedford County.

Isaac S. Mock was reared in Woodbury Twp. and attended Juniata College, under the government of the Brethren church at Huntingdon, PA. After leaving school he taught for eight terms and then accepted a position as clerk in the freight office of the PA Railroad Co. at Altoona. He later accepted a position in the auditing department of the C. C. C. & I. Railroad Co. at Cleveland and returned to Bedford County about one year later.

On September 12, 1888, Mr. Mock married Miss Imelda Hair, a sister of Edward W., Scott. Horace G. and Clarence Hair, well known citizens of Roaring Spring. Mr. and Mrs. Mock have three children: Frances W., Margaret E. and Palmer.

He has been a very active and useful citizen since he came to Roaring Spring in 1904. He is a Prohibitionist in his views on public matters and is president of the Anti-Saloon League of Roaring Spring. He belongs to the Methodist Episcopal Church and is one of its trustees.

In 1904 and 1906 he was the choice of the Democratic and Prohibition parties for the state legislature, but in 1904 withdrew because of not having been a resident of the district the required time. In 1906, notwithstanding that the parties for which he was a candidate were far in the minority he ran far ahead of their party vote with the liquor men and saloon interests solidly against him.

I've been researching the Mock line for the past couple of years and have been in touch with a few Mock researchers who have given me some interesting information on my line.

I descend from Sarah Mock b. May 1849 PA, daughter of George Mock b. 1820 and Mary Ellen Helsel b. 1829. Sarah Mock had an affair with George E. Lingenfelter (her first cousin) which resulted in baby boy, Irvin. It is believed but not documented that George Lingenfelter was the son of Thomas M. Lingenfelter and Elizabeth Mock b. ca1833 PA, Elizabeth, the daughter of George Mock b. 13 Dec 1805 and Hannah Blackburn b. ca 1815 according to the 1870 Census.

Ed. Note: Elizabeth Mock is listed in the Working Chart, a d/o George Mock & Hannah Blackburn, married to Thomas Lingenfelter. She is not listed in the 1850, 1860 census as a child in this family. I have not found Thomas Lingenfelter in any census record

Sarah later married 1st, Jacob Eversol and 2nd, David Replogle.

Young Irvin adopted his step-father's last name, changed the spelling a bit to Irvin M. Ebersole. Jacob never adopted young Irvin. My mother has told me the two never got along at all.

Irvin M. Ebersole went on to be Bedford County's Treasurer and married Nancy Reasy, daughter of Joseph Luisa Reasy. They were my great-grandparents. Their daughter Mary Catherine, married Olen Viry Cook. Their daughter Evelyn Cook, is my mother.

It was a little comical when mother related the "illigitimate child" story to me a while back: She knew I was avidly pursuing our family history and she called me one day and said "I suppose you'll find out sooner or later, but I felt I ought to tell you in person" (Gees, I thought she was going to tell me I had a long lost sibling or something sordid from her past!).

She went on to tell me that her great-grandmother Sarah (she didn't know her maiden name at the time) and a "lawyer" by the name of Lingenfelter had a brief affair and Sarah got pregnant with my mother's grandfather, "Irvin" Ebersole. She also related to me that when Irvin ran for the Bedford County Treasurer, the City said he needed a middle initial, so he chose "M". I always wondered what the "M" stood for. Then a long while later, I was perusing through a large red book at our family history library in SLC, created by the Bedford Historical Society and in it I found Sarah Replogle's name, nee Eversol, nee Mock! I can't tell you how elated I was to finally learn her maiden name. Then everything started falling into place. I learned that Sarah and George Lingenfelter were first cousins, not permitted to marry.

George went on to marry a Sarah Garretson, and Sarah married Jacob Eversol.

George Lingenfelter admitted the bastardy in court records there in Bedford County. Irvin was born in Oct 1871, as I recall. I have a copy of the bastardy record. Sarah filed the report and George obligated himself to pay her a certain amount each year for their son.

Now I know what the "M" stood for: Irvin MOCK Ebersole (name changed from Eversol).

So now you know the rest of the story!

I'd be happy to help whomever and whenever I can with research on the Mocks, Lingenfelters, Helsels, Blackburns, Reasys.

I have chosen NOT to pursue the Eversol line, since my great-Grandfather Irvin, was treated badly by Jacob Eversol. That's another story I can relate later. I presume that Eversol may have been a bit jealous that young Irvin was in constant contact with his natural father, George Lingenfelter. I'm still researching this theory. I wonder too, if Eversol may have been jealous of Lingenfelter, since Sarah and George were definitely in love, when the pregnancy occurred. I would presume it would have been a difficult situation, in those times.

Ed. Note:

Paula, I'm fascinated with your Sarah Mock/ George Lingenfelter/ et al.

This is a most interesting story. I've gone through my MFH 12 yr. surname index and also the Working Charts index and do not seem to have George E. Lingenfelter listed. In chart #7, #1.1.9 is Rachel Mock who married Jacob Dively. Two of their daughters married Lingenfelters. Barbara Dively m. Nathaniel Lingenfelter and Mary Ann Dively m. Jacob Albert Lingenfelter. Could one of these families be the parents of George E. Lingenfelter??

I've spent a day pouring over the census records for all of these families and thought I had the 1st cousin connection figured out, but now I'm totally confused! Hopefully some of our Bedford Co. researchers can shed light on this complicated family.

Collateral Lines from Some Shenandoah Valley VA Maucks/Mocks

Submitted by Joy Henning

My Mock line is on my mother's side and comes from John Mack/Mock's son Rinehart Mock who settled and stayed in Bedford/Fulton Co PA (working chart #17).

On my father's side I am related to two families who settled in Page and Shenandoah Counties VA. These are the families of John Glenn/Mary Bradley Glenn and Joseph Marston and Hannah Eppley Marston. My line on my father's side is: John Glenn/Mary Bradley>Julia Glenn/Timothy Miller>Isabelle Miller/Andrew J. Marston >Fannie Marston/William Y. Unger>Edward Unger/Edith Henry>living Ungers>Joy Unger Henning.

While doing research on these families and their marriages, I kept running into Maucks and Mocks. I was helped in this research by James P. Mauck who several years ago wrote an article for the Mock Family Historian entitled "Kissin' (Mauck) Cousins" about the Maucks and Mocks of the Shenandoah Valley of Virginia. Here is what I have learned. Most of my families in Shenandoah and Page County were employed by the three iron furnaces in the area, which were owned by the Blackford family. These furnaces were the Isabella Furnace located near Luray VA, the Caroline Furnace located just over the mountain in Shenandoah Co VA and the Elizabeth Furnace (named for Blackford's daughters). John Glenn worked at the Isabella Furnace and Joseph Marston was manager of the Caroline Furnace.

John Glenn (b. 1771 PA d. 1825 VA) had a daughter Julia Glenn who married Timothy Miller. Their daughter, Sarah Isabelle Miller married Andrew Jackson Marston, son of Joseph Marston.

Children of John Glenn

3. Ann Elizabeth b. 10 June 1840 m. Lewis Clem
4. Joseph Vernon, Jr. b. 8 Nov 1841 m. Martha Jane Barton
5. John Robert b. 22 Dec 1844
6. Caroline b. ca 1846
7. Charles Bush b. 4 June 1854 m. Phoebe Josephine Glenn (daughter of John Clark Glenn)
8. Greenberry L. b. 22 Mar 1858
9. George Franklin b. 27 Feb 1849
10. William Thomas b. 24 Aug 1835 m. Susan Mauck

The first connection is Henry Mauck.

Henry Mauck of Page/Shenandoah County VA was married three times and one of his wives was Mary Ann Glenn, daughter of George D. Glenn/Nancy Grove Glenn. George D. Glenn was a son of John Glenn/Mary Bradley. The second connection is James Harvey Mauck.

In the 1850 Census of Page County, James Harvey Mauck is living in the home of Thomas Bradley Glenn, another child of John Glenn. From the research of James P. Mock I learned that Henry Mauck was the father of Susan Mauck and James Harvey Mauck.

James Harvey Mauck married Mary Catherine Marston, daughter of Joseph Marston and Hannah Eppley Marston, and Susan Mauck, sister to James Harvey Mauck married William Thomas Marston, brother to Mary C. Marston. James Harvey Mauck had a son John R. Mauck b. 1862 who married Virginia Miller. I am also wondering if this Virginia Miller might have a connection to Timothy Miller and Julia Glenn Miller. Timothy and Julia were married 17 July 1823. By the 1830 census they have four children, three boys and one girl. Their last child was born 1845 and sometime before 1850, Timothy died. Only five children are listed with Julia in 1850 and of that group, the youngest was born 1832. Therefore, I believe there were possibly four early Miller children and their families I can't account for. There could be a yet undiscovered relationship here.

The third connection is Marcus Mauck.

In addition to this, Marcus Mauck (relationship to above Maucks unknown) was living with Julia Glenn Miller, widow of Timothy, in the 1850 census.

The last time I was in Page Co. doing research an old timer told me that after Timothy died, Julia ran a boarding house near the Caroline Furnace, so that would explain the presence of Marcus Mauck in the dwelling, but he also must be closely connected to all these other families.

Are these siblings the same as those mentioned in the 1850 Berks County Pennsylvania estate records of William posted last year on the Mock-Gen-L?

John Muck 1785 Tax List

Can anyone tell me who is the John Muck with 25 acres on the 1785 Turkey Foot Twp, Bedford Co, PA tax list? This would presumably be in present day Somerset County, PA. I don't see any Mucks or variants on a 1789 militia roll for that township.

Peter & Andrew Mock of Rowan Co, NC

I know vaguely that there is controversy as to the parentage of Peter MOCK in early Rowan County, North Carolina and I thought I'd forward the following URL that includes Peter and Andrew on a list recognizing the inherent problems with relying on transcribed sources that haven't personally been reviewed.

Posted to the BOONE mailing list was a 1782 list of Tories, Captain Johnston's list, from Rowan County, North Carolina and it appears the source was page 183 in an unnamed book by Jo White Linn. This posting can be found at

<http://archiver.rootsweb.com/th/read/BOONE/2000-05/095>

Included on the list were Andrew MOCK and Peter MOCK JR listed twice. Does anyone have access to that book to double check this reference or already know about this?

Among interesting things from this is the Jr after Peter's name. Was there another Peter in the area in 1782 or does this support Steve Lapp's theory that Peter is a brother to Andrew, who is felt to be a son of Peter and Juliana Mauck of Virginia?

And how to explain this Tory label if Andrew was supposed to have served in the Revolution in the state of Virginia? Is there more than one Andrew, a misinterpretation of the list's meaning, or what?

Thanks to anyone who can set me straight.

Queries

Macks in Wilkes-Barre PA

I am trying to trace back two apparent brothers, Samuel Chester Mack and Henry Stewart Mack, born in Wilkes-Barre in 1830 and 1833. Henry's death record from 1898 says his parents' names were Abram and Sophrona.

Henry had a son named Fred Mack, a Wilkes-Barre architect, whose profile in a 1930 History of Wilkes-Barre says he was a direct descendent of the Moravian Missionary John Martin Mack. Ron Moore posted a query in 1996 as to whether anyone knew of descendents of John Martin Mack, but I don't know if that generated anything.

A book on the Old Moravian Cemetery in Bethlehem available at ancestry.com lists three probable children of John Martin Mack, but two died young and other did not appear to marry.

Sophrona was interned at Hollenback Cemetery in April 1873. Her maiden name might have been Wood. A Sophia Mack, widow of Abraham appears in the 1871 Wilkes-Barre Directory. Sophrona appears, without Abram/Abraham in the 1860 and 1870 censuses. She was born in 1791 in Connecticut.

Abraham Mack appears in the 1840 census in Wilkes-Barre. (there also is a Mary Mack as the head of a household in Wilkes-Barre for that year).

The only member of the clan in the 1850 census is Henry, boarding with another family at age 17. I suspect Abraham died in the 1840s and the boys quickly moved out.

There are no good candidates for Sophrona in Wilkes-Barre or elsewhere in the 1850 census (as least if indexes are to be believed). Samuel appears in the 1860 census in Brooklyn, NY and thereafter (he died there in 1907).

There might have been a third son, George S. Mack. The Hollenback Cemetery plot purchased by Henry contains two small children who died in the 1860s and are said to be children of George S. Mack.

I've reached a bit of a brick wall, and all suggestions would be welcome.

Littleberry Mock descendant

I have been doing some research on our family history and ran across your website. Littleberry J. Mock is a distant relative of mine on my Father's side of the family. Fannie Edwards Lambert was my Grandmother. My Dad, born Melvin Lambert, (His father was Marvin White) was adopted at age 2 and named George William Langley, and currently resides in AL. He did not know of his birth family until they located him some 30 years later. We have been told that Eliza Ann Mock was of Creek Indian descent. Do you know anything about this?

VA Mauck researchers have been unable to attach him to a Mauck family.

A possible fourth connection is George Mock (1743-1807) and this is purely speculation.

Another twist to all this is that Hannah Marston (b. 1809 or 1815 d. 1881), wife of Joseph Marston (b. 1809 d. 1873), Hannah Eppley was the daughter of Jacob Eppley. I can find out nothing about him, but there are lots of Ebberly and Eberly families who also interacted with another branch of Mocks in Shenandoah County. I asked James P. Mock about this and he cannot fit my Jacob Eppley into the group of Ebberley/ Eberly lines. Early tax records of Shenandoah show a Jeremiah Eppley, and a Jeremiah Ebberly with a son Jacob, so I'm not sure if it is just a case of spelling as I have seen the name spelled Epple, Eple, Eppley, Epply, Eberly and Ebberley and even Everly. Jeremiah Eberly b. 1758 married Catherina Mock (1762-after 1840) daughter of George Mock, and had a son Jacob Eberly b. 1795 (according to James P. Mock) but he says he has that family pinned down and there is no place where my Jacob Epperly would fit in. I am still looking for a spot for Jacob Epperly.

The more I search the more confusing it becomes, but the joy is in the journey.

Now, my question. do you have any information on Josiah? All trails dead end for me with this ancestor. I have been able to trace the other family lines but never find anything on Josiah Hendrickson. So far, Hendrickson family records have yielded little to nothing. I would be most delighted to get some information on Josiah. Someone somewhere must have something. He was my great grandfather and I don't know anything about his ancestry. Thank you for any information you might have.

Mock Working Charts - A Team Effort!

If you haven't checked out the "Mock Working Charts" lately, I think you'll find yet another innovative tool to help you find your ancestor quickly and easily with the push of a button.

Paul Swan has come up with a program to index every name in the 90 charts. At last count there were 5900 Mock (and variations of Mock) names in the index. The index is divided into 2 parts. One for Mock names all in alphabetical order and the other for spouses or any name other than Mock. Once you have located the person you're looking for, it will give you the chart # and person #. Push the button and like magic - it brings up the chart!

This is something I've had on my "wish list" for a long time and I find that I use this index daily. It will be particularly helpful for new researchers.

Paul's next move was to re-format each chart in order to be entered on the internet in HTML format. I think you'll find the HTML form much easier to deal with than the PDF format.

So now, we've become a 3 "man" team. I will still make the initial changes on the charts and send the corrected chart to Paul. He will work his magic, make necessary additions or corrections in the index and then send the formatted chart to Gene Andert. Gene will replace the old chart with the new one.

Many thanks to Paul Swan for making this all happen!

DAR and SAR Members & Applicants

Patty Skaggs, a Mock researcher, recently sent me an e-mail saying that she was working on her application to join DAR. Her patriot ancestor was Rudolph Mauk. She asked if I had copies of approved applications submitted by other members.

I did have a copy of one application which I sent to her. Patty suggested that if there are others who have joined through their Mock Revolutionary War Patriots, they send a copy to start a repository of these approved applications to be kept on file by the editor. A list of the applications available would be posted on Mock-Gen-L and in the MFH newsletter. This could be yet a very helpful tool and MFH will pay the postage! To order a file from DAR is $20. I have not seen a SAR application, but assume that it is similar.
