Some Brethren Mack History (Beyond Alexander)

by Arthur H. Laube

of the Brethren Genealogy and History Network

Submitted by Jan Tompkins

Ferne Baldwin at Manchester College mentioned the Great Divide of 1882. My wife's Bowser/Horn families were members of the Jonathan Creek Brethren community before that division. Their first Brethren church building in the area, at a hamlet now called Mt. Perry, was erected in 1817. At that time this was a part of Newton Township, Muskingum County, Ohio. In 1818 the hamlet became part of Perry County. The Horns lived in Newton Township.

The Brethren lived along Jonathan Creek and probably met in homes beginning soon after 1805. Their first minister was Elijah Schofield of near Flintstone Gap, Maryland. Most of the early congregation came from near there.

The following speculation is an excerpt from our as yet unpublished family history by Anna Maude Bowser Orr of Hopewell Township, Perry County and Bowling Green Township, Licking County, Ohio. Her heart's desire was that her husband and children would be faithful to the Brethren church of her ancestors - they were not! But we, two of her grandchildren, have come to love the Brethren and offer this with respect and admiration.

As in earlier generations of Bowsers, Myma's father, Edward, centered the life of his family around the church. However, entering the new century the Brethren community of Jonathan Creek was in a state of flux. No longer were the German-speaking Brethren in the majority. They had been surrounded by English-speaking emigrants and the English-speaking graduates of the one-room schools, like Jockey Hollow. The Brethren were learning to read. Here and there an English Bible was to be found in their homes. There were even some who wanted printed hymnals!

The Brethren were bombarded with such new ideas. Even the most dedicated families like some of those descended from Elijah Scofield had moved west to the flatlands of Franklin County and left the religion of their fathers. There were some Brethren who spoke of getting a "higher education." There was soon to be a high school at Mt. Perry and one at Brownsville, and universities had been opened at Athens and Columbus. It was whispered that these institutions of "higher learning" were "worldly," and that they taught the word of the Devil. Some of the Brethren thought they should consider paying a minister, but others vowed, "No paid preacher will ever pray over my body!"

In retrospect it was conjectured that with more patience a split over these issues could have been avoided, but this was a general disagreement throughout the Brethren denomination and a split was not tobe avoided. The once isolated farming communities of the Brethren were being surrounded by roads, canals, railroads, and worst of all towns. Many Brethren questioned if a "good" Brethren could work or live in a "town." (The Amish and the Mennonite still forbid living off the farm in "towns.") As a result of such disagreements, in 1882 and 1883, a nationwide division of the Brethren took place.(1) But very few of this generation of Jonathan Creek Brethren showed any interest in living in villages like White Cottage, Mt. Perry, Glenford and Brownsville. Brownsville, two miles north of Greenwood church, was a stage coach stop on the bustling National Road. A thriving community, it boasted of a hotel and a tavern and a post-office. The Macks (they claimed descent from Alexander Mack) operated a grist mill at Brownsville, where other members of the family lived on nearby farms. Later, some of the family moved into Brownsville, but these first generations remained typical Brethren farmers.

However, some of the younger members of Greenwood, learning of the widespread discontent, also pressed for changes, including a change in the communion bread and in the music. Dissatisfied with the response of the leaders of the Greenwood congregation, Edward Bowser (my wife's great-grandfather) and his cousin, John Bowser, and their families joined a hundred others in organizing a Progressive Brethren congregations (2)

What a lot of misery and pain is hidden in that sentence. Church splits are like family splits. They are hurtful and may never heal. The Progressives built a church called Bethel, at Fivepoints, Ziontown, across the road from the Conservative Olivet.(3) Greenwood, the other Conservative Brethren church in Perry County, was active as late as 1917 but was eventually abandoned.(4) of Brownsville, several miles north on the National Pike, in Bowling Green Township, Licking County, came even further. In 1898, the Progressive Brethren built a church on the Deffenbaugh farm, about a half mile west of the Greenwood church.(5) They named it Berachah (Blessing), and for almost two decades it was a blessing.

The Bowsers and Deffenbaughs had to travel several miles to attend services at Bethel and the Macks

Edward's daughter, Anna Maude, had married Bert R. Orr in 1895. His two younger sisters, Della and Zoa, had already become Brethren and married the Mack brothers, Nathan and John. The Mack brothers were farmers and neighbors of Bert Orr. His sisters and brothers-in-law had encouraged Bert to become a Brethren and marry Anna Maude Bowser. Brother Bert, an upand-coming building contractor of Brownsville, was awarded the great honor of building Berachah church. What a feather in his cap that was! He put up a lot of barns for his Brethren church friends.

The first communion service held in Berachah was very special. As had been the desire of the Progressives, the communion bread was quite different. Sam Deffenbaugh built a fire in the bake-oven in "the lower house," raked out the coals and got the oven ready for baking. Two women baked Parker-house rolls and sent the freshly baked rolls up the hill to the church where they were used instead of bread at the communion service! Ever since the division, Nathan Mack played the cornet for Sunday service, and on this first communion service in the new building, the sound of his horn was particularly mellow.(6)

The Berachah congregation held their funeral services at Good Hope Lutheran church and many of the Brethren are buried in that cemetery. At least two generations of Bowsers attended the Sunday services and the mid-week evening service. It was an active congregation and there were many very popular revival meetings and summer events.

The center of population and activity shifted to Glenford and shortly before 1920, the Progressive Brethren elected to combine the Bethel and Berachah congregations into one church at Glenford. The Bethel building was moved to Gratiot, in Licking County, where for a short time it was the home of a Brethren church; later it was used by a Baptist church.

- (1) Ferne Baldwin of Manchester College gave us the basic facts of the 1882-3 division. Ferne also reported, "There were also other questions of authority and church polity and a variety of social and theological differences." We have speculated as to what some of these might have been.

MAAG RESEARCH

By Kathleen Groll

I am doing research on the Winemore family in an attempt to find the connection with the Maag family. Does anyone have a record of a daughter of Conrad Maag marrying a Winemore?

I have this information on Barbara Maag Sivert's will: Abstract of Philadelphia County Wills, Book 5, #42

Barbara Sivert of Philadelphia, widow - To Mary Winemore, Elizabeth Winemore and John Winemore, grandchildren of brother Conrad Maag - To Frances Shetzline, wife of George Shetzline and daughter of brother Henry Maag - To Trustees of Evangelical Reformed Church - All residue to Ann Wiley, wife of Robert Wiley and granddaughter of brother Henry Maag - To John Maag of Township of Passyunk, Farmer, grandson of brother Henry - Exr. Kentucky Research from the Ruddlesfort Web Site

For those searching for any clues about their early Kentucky ancestors, one good people finder is the set of volumes called The 1787 Census of Virginia. These are a compilation of tax lists edited by Florine Love and Netti Schreiner-Yantis. The last volume is an all-name index and gives the page number. Included in these tax lists are the early counties of Virginia.

These volumes are in large genealogical libraries. Of course, if your people came from other places, they may not appear. There are no guarantees. However, you may be surprised to learn that your ancestor held property in both Virginia and in what later became Kentucky (in 1792).

More on Bourbon Co., KY

For those who plan to attend the Mock Family Conference October 19-22 in Frankfort, the following are some "must see" sites to visit.

Paris, a short drive from Frankfort, is the county seat, located in the heart of the beautiful Bluegrass Horse Country.

Points of Interest:

Bourbon Co. Courthouse - this beautiful and ornate structure is considered to be the most beautiful courthouse in the state. Take time to check out their many available records.

Duncan Tavern - Three story stone structure in continuous use since 1788 as a tavern, boarding house and now, the home of the Kentucky DAR and the second largest genealogical library in Kentucky.

Hopewell Museum - 1910 Beaux post building on Pleasant St. features a great collection of photographs, illustrations and artifacts of Bourbon Co. history.

Claiborne Farm - Home of Secretariat on US 627 just south of town (Paris)

Runnymede Farm, on north US 27, home of champion thoroughbred horses since 1867. Site of Martin Station.

Cane Ridge Meeting House - a log structure built in 1795 where in 1804 the Christian Church was established.

After leaving Paris, continue on to Ruddles Mills, the home of Rudi Mauk Jr. and his family. Visit the cemetery and then drive a short distance up the hill to the site of the Mauk home. Rudolph Jr. purchased the land from George and Theodosia Ruddle.

Deed of Sale -

MOCK FAMILY OF BOURBON CO. KENTUCKY

Submitted by Barbara Dittig

George Mock, son of Jacob and Mary "Polly" Payne, was born about 1795 in Bourbon Co., KY. He served in the War of 1812 and on July 2, 1872 at the age of 78 he applied for his pension. The pension record states that he married Diana Ruddell in August 1817 in Ruddells Mills. George died in 1882/83 in Ruddells Mills.

Diana Ruddell Mock

Diana Ruddell was born in Ky. about 1795, the daughter of George Ruddell Jr. and Sally Masoner. She died about 1870. Their 8 children were all born in Ruddells Mills.

Diana's sister, Elizabeth Ruddell married Joseph Mauk.

The following in an accounting of their first two children, Cecilia S. Mock and George Ruddell Mock

Cecilia Mock Roberts

Cecilia Mock was born 28 May 1818 in Ruddell's Mills, KY. She married 5 Sep 1839 Samuel Knox Roberts, son of Francis and Elizabeth Ford Roberts of Montgomery Co., KY.

Cecilia and Samuel had eleven children, 5 born in Ruddells Mills. By 1850 they had moved to Daviess Co., MO and they had 6 more children, two of whom died in infancy.

In the early 1860's as land opened up in the west, the family left Missouri by ox wagon and headed for Colorado. The following is the story written by their daughter, Lydia Ellen in 1927 (age 83) of their trip and their life in this new and untamed land.

In October of the year 1863, my father, Samuel K. Roberts started from Bethany, Missouri with his family for Colorado. There were 7 children of us and Mother and Father. My two older sister had gone out the year before and Laura had gotten married to Henry Clark, then Father came back after the rest of us. We started in an ox wagon, with two yoke of exen and one yoke of cows. The first night we camped, Father played the fiddle and we children danced around the camp fire and after we went to bed the wind came up and blew our tent down. We crossed the river at Kansas City on a ferry boat. We didn't drive very far with the cattle, they were so slow Father traded them off for a span of horses.

We traveled on out across the desert, up the Platte River, and could stop at the camp houses along the road. The snow had got to be three or four feet deep and we had to lay over some days - the weather was so cold. There were so Cont'd on page 10

George Ruddell Mock

George Ruddell Mock was born about 1820 in Ruddells Mills, Bourbon Co., KY. He died 28 Jun 1901 in Nepesta, Pueblo Co., CO. On May 22, 1845 he married Francis Amanda Hayes, a cousin to President Hayes, born 26 Jun 1828 in KY; died 4 Nov 1893 Bob Creek, Pueblo Co., CO.

They moved to Missouri soon after their marriage and lived there for several years before moving on to Colorado. George and Francis had the following children:

- 1. James Elvest Mock b.1847; m. Alice Youngman
- 2. William Hayes Mock 1849-1922; m. Margaret Emeline Haun
- 3. Mary Catherine Mock 1850-1914; m. James Gill
- 4. John Thronton Mock 1854-1925; m. Annie Elkins
- 5. Susan Eleanor Mock 1858-1946; m. Charles Shaw
- Robert Samuel Mock 1862-1892; m. Nettie Hawkins (Grey)?
- 7. Cora Alice Mock b. 1869; m. (1) Grant Hackworth; (2) William Miller

many wagons on the road, they kept the road broken. We saw droves of buffalo going into the river for water. Lots of Indians would come in to the camp houses to trade as they kept supplies at the stations.

We finally reached Fort Lupton which was 25 miles from Denver. We had some friends there and one of our horses died there. Father had to come on over here where he had been living to get another team. Brother George got a job of helping drive some sheep over and he froze his toes on one foot.

It was in February when we landed here where my sister were living about 4 miles up the road from where Fountain is now. There was not more than a dozen families then between Colorado City [now Colorado Springs] and Pueblo. There were Ute Indians camped around here in the Valley and they would go to the houses and beg something to eat and always ask for biscuits. they were friendly Indians but when summer came they moved into the mountains.

Later on the Plains Indians, the Cherokees and Arapahoes came in stealing horses and cattle, and killing people when they had a chance. They burned some houses and the families along the creek here all went to Colorado City and forted up. We went in an ox wagon after dark. The Indians had killed and scalped three boys near Colorado City when they were out after their cows. The men all got their guns and followed the Indians and drove them out of the neighborhood. The government later furnished the citizens with ammunition and they went after the Indians and captured them at Sand Creek, out on the Big Sandy. My brother George was along, and two of my cousins, Jim and Bill Mock.

While we were at Colorado City, a train of wagons came along going to Denver. Mr. Clark and sister Laura went with them to Denver. The Indians had been following them all the way up the Valley. The men would see the Indians occasionally back in the bluffs watching them from the hills but the Indians were afraid to attack them.

In August in 1868 the Indians came in the Valley again killing people when they would catch them out from home. They ran off some horses at Gills Ranch about 6 miles east of Fountain. We had children. One night one of my brothers came over to tell us the Indians were here again and it was not safe for us to stay out there on the ranch. They put me on the horse with one child behind me and one on my lap and Mr. Bell led the horse. I thought we looked like Joseph and Mary going to Egypt. We went acroos the prairie to Fountain to Mr. Terrel's house as there were some other neighbors there. My Father's family lived on the place where Will Hinch now lives in the north part of town. We stayed there until the Indians had left the Valley. Then General Custer with his army massacred the bunch of Indians and they never troubled us any more.

Lydia Roberts married Lancelot Bell Mar 21, 1965 in Colorado City, ElPaso Co., CO. They are my great grandparents.

Two sons - one, James Mock of Ordway, CO and Will Mock of Fowler, CO were volunteers at the Sandy Creek fight.

From the Canon City Daily Record, the death notice for Will Mock -

William Hayes Mock, a veteran of the Civil War, died at the family home on N. Cottonwood Ave. June 17, 1922, aged 73 years and 8 days.

The deceased was born in Lafayette Co., MO 9 Jun 1849. He came with his parents to Colorado in 1864, crossing the plains in a prairie schooner. They established themselves in Denver, and while yet a boy of 15, enlisted in the Third Colorado Cavalry under the 100 day call to repel Indian attacks on the western settlements. He participated in the Battle of Sand Creek and in other engagements in Indian warfare.

Mr. Mock was married to Miss Maggie Haun of Lafayette Co., MO in 1867 and to this union, five children were born, two of them died in infancy.

The family home was located near Fowler, CO and as one of the early settlers of the upper Arkansas Valley, Mr. and Mrs. Mock underwent all the privations and hardship incidents to pioneer days in Colorado.

Mr. Mock was closely identified with the growth and development of the cattle industry in this part of the state, during his early manhood as a cowboy and range rider, and later as stockman and rancher. On account of old age, he retired from active business a few years ago and in 1920, moved to Canon City to spend his declining days.

He became a member of the Baptist Church and remained a faithful conscientious Christian to the end. He was a quiet unassuming gentleman, highly respected by all who knew him. He was a kind loving and indulgent husband and father.

There is left to mourn his death, a wife, two sons, Walter H. of Canon City, and Arthur L. of Burnt Mills, CO, two sisters, Mrs. Cora Miller and Mrs. Ellen Shaw of Hotchkiss, Colo., besides a host of relations and friends.

Answer from Steve Lapp -

This may be a link that JP Mock has been searching for. This Marcellus Mauck appears to be descended from David Mauck and Mary Butler of Virginia. The fol-

"James Warren, descended from David and Mary thru their son John, his son William, his son Marcellus, his daughter Jean who married James Edward Warren, authored a one page letter that states David was born in Philadelphia and his father was Johann Philip Mauck, who arrived in Philadelphia from Rotterdam, Holland aboard the Phoenix on 20 Oct 1744. James provides nothing further on Johann Philip Mauck, but states that lowing is taken from the Mock Archives from JP Mock:

David moved to Prince William Co. in the 1790's, then to the area of Big Spring, Shenandoah Co.(now Page Co.) about 1807."

My gg grandfather was George Allen Mack, b. April 1845 presumably in Germany. I believe he entered this country through New Orleans, but no record has been found. He lived in or around Peoria, Illinois, m. Emma _____ who we found through records of an inheritance, was a member of the Krup family which is know for manufacturing kitchen appliances. The 1900 Census place him in Staplehurst, NE, listed as being a saloon keeper. I know of only one son, William b. 1873. I am hoping to find siblings for George Allen and his son, William. Charles Mock was the oldest child of my gg grandfather David Mock. He was clerk of the court of Davidson County after is his father left the position. He was a witness, as was David, to a great many court records. In 1834 he married Maria Transou who died in 1846. After the death of both of his daughters, he married Trephina or Tryphena (? Last name) and opened a boarding school for girls in the house built for his mother, Elizabeth Hoover, by her father George Hoover. David left the house to his son Charles in 1840 when the family moved to Lafayette County, MO. They called the school Sylva Grove Female Seminary. It was purchased in September 1852 by Dr. Charles F. Deems, president of Greensborough Female College and renamed Glenanna. Charles Mock and family then went to California for the gold rush.

Valentine Hoover was his Mother's brother making him Charles' uncle. However, Valentine also married Florena Transou which, if the two Transou women are sisters, could also make them brothers in-law. Isn't it fun to try and figure relationships in a very small community. They were prominent families in the Fair Grove Community in Davidson County.

I have looked at my stuff/data/articles/deeds/ charts and do not see any Wilson or Crismon connection to Charles Mock.

My name is Jim Horany, I am a Lebanese American living in Texas, married to Debbie Carroll, who is the daughter of Margaret Mock. Margaret, (my mother-inlaw) is a direct descendant of William Randolph Mock. Margaret's great aunt, Minnie Bell is still alive and alert. She is the granddaughter of John Jacob Mock, son of William Randolph Mock. My wife Debbie and Margaret both tell me she has a number of extra details about the Mock Family, that we do not have in our collection. I have always been intrigued by Margaret's family history, and until the last few days, I have had no written documents about her family to go on. However, recently she came to visit us, and we took her to Fort Worth to visit her sister, Ina who had a collection of details and data from the Mock family in Mercer Co., KY and Virginia.

I have run on to your correspondence via email, recorded in August 1996 in reference to Randolph Mock of Mercer and Boyle Cos of Kentucky and in particular Danville, KY. Margaret's Mock family is from Danville, KY. I have the list of Mock's that fit into Margaret's family as well as the name of some of their spouses. I know by her documents that their father was Louis Francis Mock, son of John Lewis Mock, who was the son of John Jacob Mock, and John Jacob was the son of William Randolph Mock who was married, according to her records, to the very Sarah Fisher which you mention.

My curiosity is, who was the father of William Randolph Mock. In reading from the Mock Discussion Group on the Internet, it's a good possibility that Mathias Mock was his father. Has this been proven? We have three other names on the documents, which plainly state that there were a couple of other Mocks found in Virginia and Kentucky that are supposedly the direct ancestors of Wm. Randolph Sr., however there are no dates to place as to when they were in that area, only that they are the first recorded notice of a Mock name.

I am extremely interested in knowing more about the Mock family if possible. By the way, I do have all of the children's names from William Randolph down to Margarets generation. Margaret was born in 1930.

Missouri/Kansas Mocks

I am looking for information about my great grand parents. Amos Andrew Mock born 1872 and died 1934. He is buried in Baxter Springs Cemetery, Baxter Springs, Cherokee Co., KS. Amos Andrew married Lennie M. McDaniel who died 1918 Galena, Cherokee Co., KS. Their dau. (my grandmother), was Zola Lucille Mock. Amos had a brother, Frank who died young due to an accident when he fell off of a wagon. I feel that my Amos Mock line is connected to your "working chart' #23B, Rudolph Mauk through Robert Frank Mock b. 1852 MO; m. Lucinda Gard. The only problem is you all have him married to a Rebecca ______.?? Could Lennie have been a second marriage? I need to find out when Rebecca died.

Ed. Note: Going thru my working charts, the only possibility I found was a Daniel Mock (#1.3.2.8 in chart # 23B, Rudolph) the 8th child of Jacob Mauk and Polly
Payne Mauk. Sons of Jacob & Polly who went to IN were:
Aaron Mock and John Mock, both to Rush Co., IN. Nothing is known of this Daniel. B. Dittig

Titanic

I am presently searching further information about Mr. Philip Edmund Mock. Mr. Mock was on board RMS Titanic in 1912, travelling first class with his sister Mrs. Paul Schabert (nee Emma Moc k) Mrs. Schabert occupied cabin C-28. Mr. Mock was rescued with his sister in lifeboat #11 because Mrs. Schabert didn't want to leave him. If you have any new information on him and Mrs. Schabert, or a personnal account of their own, I would be very pleased.

Next Issue - Schedule of events and speakers for the 10th Annual Mock Family Conference to be held in Frankfort, KY October 19-21, 2000. When making your hotel reservations at the Holiday Inn Capital Plaza, identify yourself with the Mock Conference to get our special rate.

The Mock Family Historian is a quarterly publication. Dues are $10 per calendar year. Back issues are available at $10 per volume, or $2.50 per issue. You can now find early issues of the MFH on the Mock Family Page. Sandy Hart has spent many hours converting these issues from a Mac format. Many thanks to Sandy for all of her hard work. More of the early issues will be on the Internet in the future.

I would like to thank those who sumitted articles and queries. I was not able to include all of them in this issue, but they will appear in future issues. Please sumit your items in "ready to print" form and mail to:

Barbara Dittig, editor, 366 Jacaranda Dr., Danville, CA 94506-2125

From Sandy Hart: 'The year 2000 is a Census Year. most of the census will be taken by mail, so after you have filled out your census form why not make a copy of it and file with your important papers. Then your family will not have to wait 70 years to learn about you."

Hope to see you all in Frankfort in October.
