

In 1933 Elmer and Verna had portraits made of their family, here Verna and Melva Jean (another includes Elmer and Colleen). Verna was 31 and Jean was 6 that year. Having family portraits made in the worst years of the Great Depression would have been a significant expression of family devotion and love.

