"The family information passed down on Andrew Moore Fulton say that he was a large man, not overweight but just tall and large made man. The family says he filled up a doorway when he went through it. He was a large land owner and a collector of lands, no doubt, as many acres that he bought and sold here. There are court records for him in Johnson County, but that is where the court met in the early years. So far, I have found no will for him but we do have a court book missing. They think it was lost, misplaced, or something when the new courthouse at Danville was built." (Cornelia Daniels)

Notes for ROBERT FULTON:

Robert Fulton, wounded at Oak Hills, Missouri and at Murfreesboro, Tennessee, 31 Dec. 1861. Being permanently disabled at Murfreesboro, he was given an unlimited furlough. One very remarkable thing in connection with Robert Fulton's soldier life is that he was with the company about twenty months, made a good soldier, was wounded before the company fired a gun. At Oak Hills, he was wounded before the company became engaged at Elk Horn. Though we were under fire two days, yet both Gen. McCulloch and Gen. McIntosh being killed, we were ever brought into action. (From Book on the Civil War by Dr. Robert Dacus)

Notes for SARAH LOUISA YEARWOOD:
Obituary: Death Calls Sarah Yearwood Fulton, aged 77 years at her home near Pisgah Church, 8 miles southwest of this city, at 10 o'clock p.m. on Thursday of last week, February 23, 1922. The funeral service, conducted by Rev. B.A. McKnight was held at the family home Friday afternoon, February 24th, burial being in the family cemetery on the Fulton Farm. Mrs. Fulton was born in East Tennessee in the year 1846 and with her parents came to Johnston County, Arkansas, in early childhood, residing near Clarksville until her marriage to Robert Fulton. With her husband she came to Yell County, about the year 1870, locating near Pisgah. Mr. Fulton died in 1882, leaving his widow and eight children, five sons and three daughters. One daughter Mrs. E. A. Jones of this city and four sons, three of whom live near Pisgah and one in Texas still surviving.

Mrs. Fulton resided in the Pisgah community for nearly a half of a century, and no woman was ever more universally loved, and none left a fairer record of noble Christian charity, gentleness and kindness than she. She was a devout member of the Presbyterian Church at Gum Springs, having joined the church there twenty-six years ago at a meeting conducted by Mark Limbird and Rev. J. T. Hampton.

The death of this splendid woman robs her relatives, neighbors, and friends, of an ever sympathetic and available source of comfort, aid and counsel and her going away will be keenly and sadly felt by her community. To the surviving relatives the P.D. tenders its deepest sympathy and condolence, and for comfort can only point them to the useful, happy, blameless life she lived, and the inspiring example she has left behind.

Dardanelle Post Dispatch February 1922.
