* Change in spelling of name assumed to be an artifact due to a different person entering the records, rather than there being two couples, both named William and Susan.

One thing that strikes me is the prevalence of the name Henry, found throughout the Lisle families and in the family of Thomas Smith and Elizabeth Bateman. I think it very likely these people are all from one family, including the later entries that have the name spelled SMYTH or SMYTHE.

There were more Tanners, Webbs and Jennings that I didn't copy
